WIND STORM AT PARSHAL DOES MUCH DAMAGE

Many Barns in Vicinity of This Town and Plaza, Mountrail County, Blown Down

ALSO AROUND BURNSTAD

Bismarck Visited by Severe Rain, Wind and Electrical Storm During Night

STOCKYARDS BURN
Mandan, June 18.—Lightning this morning struck the Northern Pacific stock yards at Sunday, a station two miles west of Mandan, and caused serious damage. The yards, which cover a considerable acreage, are used by livestock shippers as a feeding point and are valued at $15,000 to $20,000. The fire was still burning at noon.

WINDOWS BLOWN OUT
Mandan, June 18.—Windows in the church and numerous stores at St. Anthony were shattered, 11 windows in the public school at Almont and windows in stores there were broken in two distinct hail storms which struck those two sections of Morton county yesterday afternoon. Hail in some places damaged some farm buildings. Hail the size of hen's eggs fell. At Almont extensive damage was done to grain in a small territory comprising about six square miles; elsewhere a total loss to winter rye was caused but spring wheat was damaged little.

A very high wind, approaching a small cyclone, passed over Parshal and Plaza, Mountrail county, between 6 and 6 o'clock last evening, accompanied by a heavy rain. The wind came in from the Northwest, blew down many barns in the country and some small buildings in the town and moved a number of others off their foundations. A new school being built at Parshal was damaged, the roof being blown off and one wall being torn down. Very little damage was done to crops, and the Soo line suffered only damage to snow fences and grain car doors being blown off.

There also was a heavy wind storm around Burnstad, Logan county, which did extensive damage, according to reports here. The amount of the damage is unknown as yet.

Bismarck was in the path of a storm with a 35-mile an hour wind during the night, and a severe electrical storm in the early hours this morning. Several trees along the river south of the city were struck by lightning, and limbs knocked off them.

Two-thirds of an inch of rain fell here, according to the weather reports, beginning with a heavy shower late yesterday afternoon and continuing with a heavy rain during the night.

Other rain reported in the state follows: Bottineau 1.07 inches; Devils Lake .72; Dickinson .13; Fessenden .44; Langdon .29; Larimore .10; Minot 2.10 inches; Napoleon .40; Williston .6; Dunn Center. Grand Forks, Jamestown, Lisbon and Fargo reported no rain in the 24 hours ending at 7 a. m. today.

The weather forecast indicated probable thunderstorms tonight.

Much Hail Damage
Much hail damage has been done in the last few days, particularly to winter rye. Hail loss claims reaching the state department totaled 725 for the season today. Yesterday 284 claims were reported, 160 from Bowman county, 58 from Grand county, some from Stark and Dunn counties, and additional claims were received from these counties today.

PIGS KILLED BY HAILSTONES

Heavy Storm Strikes in Morton County

(Special to the Tribune)

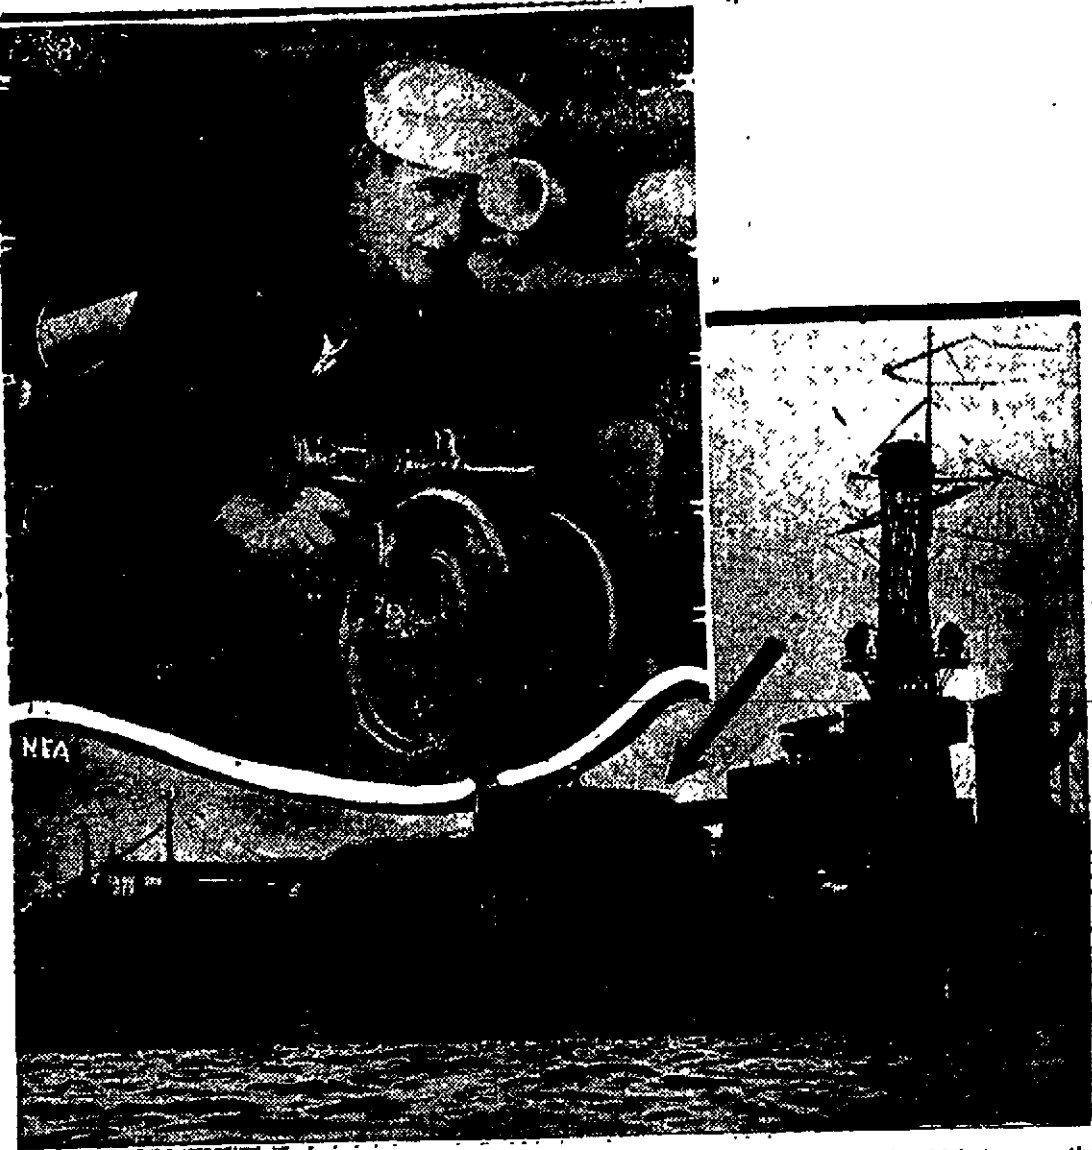

Salem, N. D., June 18.—A storm which traveled from Glen Ulen to the east through Almont and south of New Salem and Judson, into the St. Anthony country, late yesterday, caused considerable damage.

A virtual cloudburst and hail, with stones three inches in diameter, caused death to pigs and chickens and destroyed much grain. There was not much wind.

Chinese, Soviet Agreement Hits At Americans

Washington, June 18.—The Chinese and Russian Soviet governments have entered into an agreement for the exclusive control and administration by the Chinese Eastern Railway and claims made by the state department in behalf of the American government and citizen investors have been rejected.

SCENE OF NAVY DISASTER AND A SURVIVOR

The turret, indicated by arrow in lower photograph, of the dreadnaught Mississippi, which became the death chamber of 48 U. S. Navy officers and sailors off San Pedro Harbor, Calif., during range practice when a heavy charge of high explosive, mysteriously ignited, flared back from the gun breech, filling the turret with deadly gases. The men had no chance in the withering blast, dying at their posts—Lieut. Thomas E. Zellars, with his hand clutching the sprinkler control, an act which officers believe may have saved the ship from entire destruction. Upper picture shows Joseph Caviezel, first class seaman from Los Angeles, who, by a miracle, is the only survivor of any men actually operating the guns in the lethal chamber. At the shock he was either propelled, or instinctively dived through a momentarily open hatch below the guns to the deck below, with but slight injury.

CONVENTION OF ROTARY BEING HELD

First Convention of Rotary International Is Being Held at Toronto, Ont.

MANY ATTENDING

Toronto, June 18.—Two hundred and eighty-one new Rotary clubs were organized during the past year of which 211 were in the United States, Canada and Newfoundland, 37 in England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales, 1 in Cuba and 32 in other sections of the world. Dr. Crawford C. McCullough, Extension Committee Chairman, told the Rotarians in convention here.

Of this number all but 19 have been formally elected to membership in Rotary International and the election of the remaining 19 is merely a matter of form. The Rotary roster by continents, according to Dr. McCullough's statement, is: North America, United States, Canada, Newfoundland, Mexico, Cuba, Porto Rico, and Bermuda; Central America, Panama and Isthmian Canal Zone; South America: Brazil, Uruguay, Argentina, Peru and Chile; Europe: England, Scotland, Ireland, Wales, France, Italy, Spain, Belgium, Holland, Denmark and Norway; Africa, Union of South Africa; Asia: India, China, Japan and Philippine Islands; Australasia, Australia, New Zealand and Tasmania.

Surveys Made
Surveys have been made in Switzerland, Czechoslovakia, Austria and Sweden which, it is believed, will result in the formation of Rotary clubs in those countries, within a few months. The establishment of Rotary in the Scandinavian countries and in New Zealand is being given consideration for the better administration of the clubs that are now well established in those places. Rotary meetings are now being conducted in eight languages in different parts of the world and the number of clubs using Spanish and French has grown to such proportions that one section of the Secretary's office of Rotary International carries on a large part of its correspondence in those languages.

10,000 Attend

To promote understanding, goodwill and international peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men 10,000 Rotarians are gathered here from all sections of the civilized world for the 15th annual convention of Rotary International. This is the first convention of Rotary International that has ever been held in Canada and the second ever held outside the United States—the Rotarians having met in Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1921.

Validity of Law Questioned

The validity of laws advocated by the Children's Code Commission and passed by the 1923 legislature is in question in an appeal of Henry Kelber and others from Richland county, from an order of District Judge Wolfe, who held three children were neglected children and appointed a guardian for them. The appellants' brief, stating that the laws under which the court acted included chapter 179 of the laws of 1923 relating to neglected children under the age of 18 years, declared, "the law under which said proceedings were had is unconstitutional."

FEDERAL FUND AWAITS USE IN NORTH DAKOTA

U. S. Bureau Reports $1,426,703 Available for Road Work and Not Used

MILEAGE COMPLETED

North Dakota's federal aid highway system embraces 4,855 miles, somewhat less than that of her sister state, South Dakota, which is 5,457 miles, according to a bulletin of the Bureau of Public Roads of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The system of highways was approved by the Secretary of Agriculture in 1916, the bureau reports, and considerable progress has already been reported on the system. In North Dakota, the total appropriation was $7,124,047 while in South Dakota $7,509,535 was apportioned.

Although two of the appropriations were made before the Federal Highway Act restricted the expenditure on April 30 the Bureau of Public Roads reports the status of construction as follows:

Total mileage completed:
North Dakota 1,662; South Dakota 967.

Mileage under construction:
North Dakota 336; South Dakota 646.

Mileage approved for construction:
North Dakota 140; South Dakota 110.

Funds available for new projects not yet approved for construction: North Dakota $1,426,703; South Dakota $233,154.

The above figures show that 2,760 miles of the 10,312 miles embraced in the system in the two states is either completed, under construction or scheduled for construction at an early date. In addition the states have improved roads on the system independent of Federal aid.

The whole Federal aid highway system embraces approximately 170,000 miles of road.

U. S. REPLY TO JAPAN HELD TO BE REASONABLE

Spirit of Friendliness and Good Will Declared to Mark Document

IS NOT MADE PUBLIC

Official Comment on Hughes Note Is Withheld Pending a Careful Study

Tokio, June 18. (By the A. P.)—The American reply to Japan's protest against exclusion of Japanese from the United States is marked by a spirit of friendliness and reasonableness, and will be examined in the same spirit, it is authorized here.

Decoding of the document after its cabled transmission from Washington was completed at the foreign office late today. Official comment was withheld pending a careful study of its terms. The government has not decided on its further action regarding the exclusion issue.

HANIHARA SPEAKS

Providence, R. I., June 18.—Japan, in its dealings with the United States, has always believed as between friends, there is no question that cannot be adjusted amicably. Ambassador Hanihara of Japan declared today in an address at Brown University, where he received the honorary degree of Doctor of Law.

With "such unique and precious history" back of the American-Japanese friendship, he said, "the one great question in the minds of my people now is 'Is it the true sentiment of the American people to make light of the friendship of the people of Japan, a friendship which has been built up by hard, conscientious labor of the two people extending over nearly three-quarters of a century, not only to the good of themselves alone, but for the good of the rest of mankind?'"

The Japanese ambassador sketched the history of the relations of the two nations from the time when Commodore Perry set foot on the shores of Japan, to the signing of the Washington conference treaties. He refrained from any specific mention of the immigration law, with its Japanese exclusion provisions.

After thanking Brown University and the people of Rhode Island for the compliment bestowed upon him, which, he said, was an assurance of good will and friendship, the ambassador began at once his outline of the long friendship between the two countries.

MUCH DAMAGE IS CAUSED BY STRONG WINDS

Minot Reports Lightning Starting Fire in Many Places North of Here

Minot, N. D., June 18.—Widespread damage which brought no loss in life, through northwest North Dakota was caused by the high winds, and lightning, while a deluge approached the dimensions of a catastrophe in several isolated reports received, according to the Minot Daily News.

In most of the communities the fall of rain, caused damage outweighing the possible value to the crops. Lightning started fires in several places, and in Berthold, an elevator was completely burned, the loss being estimated at $15,000.

At Parshal, the loss caused by the wind is estimated to have totaled $100,000. The roof of the village schoolhouse was blown away, and a delivery barn burned. Charles Fall had both legs broken when the barn on which he was working was razed. Stanley and Makoti report hail damage.

In Minot several landmarks were blown down, and a downpour of rain occurred, two inches in less than two hours. The local electric system was damaged by the electric storm. A rise in the Mouse river is predicted as a result of the heavy rain.

N. D. FATHER ACCUSED OF FATALLY SCALDING CHILD

Jamestown, N. D., June 18.—Stutsman county authorities are seeking to extradite Henry Funk, formerly of Jamestown, who recently was arrested in Minneapolis on a warrant charging manslaughter. Funk left Jamestown about a month ago while authorities were investigating the death of his 2-year-old child, reported by the father to have been fatally scalded as the result of a boilerful of hot water accidentally chipping upon it.

Authorities now charge that Funk, while preparing a liquor mash, dropped a boilerful of it upon the child.

Mrs. Funk is with her husband and will be returned with him as a witness.

ANNUAL PICNIC AT NEW SALEM IS HELD TODAY

Impassable Roads to West and South Cut Down the Attendance at Affair

FEEDING IS STRESSED

Improvement of Herds Now on Hand Is Featured by Speakers at Gathering

(Special to The Tribune)

New Salem, June 18.—The annual picnic to the New Salem pioneers in dutying in western North Dakota was paid today.

Unfortunately the caravan which went to various farms on the Holstein circuit was smaller than usual due to heavy rains but there was an eager band of five squads which went out this morning to find out how the New Salem circuit members were curing for their dairy cattle, and to read the record of their success.

Better feeding and improvement on the foundation already laid, was urged upon the circuit members, and other farmers, at the annual picnic held this afternoon in the New Salem park. Prof. J. H. Sheppard, of the Agricultural College, "daddy" of the circuit, stressed the fact in an interview that the New Salem circuit had some of the best foundation dairy blood in the country, and that each farmer can improve his herd and the production through careful feeding and care.

At the picnic this afternoon speakers included Prof. Sheppard, President Coulter of the Agricultural College, Max Morgan and Gordon W. Randlett. A program will be given tonight.

Roads are virtually impassable south and west of New Salem, due to the storm, but the Mandan and center bands, the New Salem orchestra, and farmers from many counties, joined to make the picnic and tour a lively affair.

The Flasher circuit tour yesterday, learned that good feeding pays. Herd records were read off, and some of them showed an average increase per year of 60 pounds of butter per cow in 1923 over 1921, which is considered a very remarkable increase. The increase is attributed to careful feeding, and a vision of the methods of handling the cows by the circuit superintendent, better breeding and general improvement in methods of feeding is placed as the most important factor.

The Flasher circuit, younger than the New Salem circuit, has a membership of 11 and there are over 500 animals owned by the members. They have 158 registered Holsteins among this number, including many valuable animals. The herd of W. F. Reynolds, state dairy commissioner, numbers 97.

The attendance on the Flasher circuit trip was cut down by bad roads, particularly with reference to South Dakota people, as the big storm in that state a few days ago prevented many from coming. Nevertheless county agent Eberle of Perkins county brought five cars containing 20 South Dakotans, who were much impressed. Farms were visited and a program given at Flasher.

Speakers at Flasher included Joseph Devine, commissioner of immigration, who gave a ringing address of optimism regarding North Dakota's future; Dr. J. L. Coulter, president of the North Dakota Agricultural College, and Max Morgan, J. T. F. Dinwoodie, editor of the Dakota Farmer, was a visitor.

Several representatives of the Burleigh County Cow Testing Association were on the trip, as well as official representatives of Bismarck.

At Station Tomorrow
A demonstration in feeding will be conducted at the U. S. Great Plains Demonstration Farm south of Mandan Thursday as a part of the three-day Show dairy tour. Experts will show to visitors many remarkable accomplishments at the station.

Persons afflicted with dementia praecox comprise about 65 per cent of the total number of inmates of institutions for mental diseases.

AGED COOK FOR ROOSEVELT IN BADLANDS FREED OF MURDER

Amidon, N. D., June 18.—John Tyler, aged negro rancher of the North Dakota Badlands, tried on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the killing of De Greck, transient, during an altercation at the district court here late last night after six hours deliberation.

Tyler, prominently known throughout the Badlands for years and at one time a cook for President Theodore Roosevelt when the President was recuperating in this section, pleaded self-defense. The trial lasted six days.

Large Area Is Flooded, Result Of Cloudburst

Little Rock, Ark., June 18.—Meager reports received here today from Diaz, Jackson County, stated that a large area of land in Izard county was reported flooded as a result of a cloudburst last night, telephone and telegraph wires torn down, and several miles of track on the White River division of the Missouri Pacific washed out.

RECOVERY OF POSTAL LOOT IS EXPECTED

Already More Than $100,000 of Stolen Securities Has Been Recovered

HOLD 10 PERSONS

Police Say They Have Enough Evidence Already to Make Their Charges

Chicago, June 18. (By the A. P.)—Recovery of most of the $500,000 loot taken by the bandits in a hold-up last Thursday night of a Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad train near here, is expected today by police and postal inspectors, searching for three men, said to be named in evidence unearthed by the investigators.

Non-negotiable securities valued at $100,000, five thousand dollars in five dollar bills and 61 registered mail pouches taken in the holdup have been recovered and eight men and two women are in custody. Enough evidence has been obtained to justify charging all the men with robbery and the women with being accessories, according to Chief Collins and Chief Hughes, directing the police investigation.

VALUATION OF RAILROADS IN N. DAK. HIGHER

Tax Commissioner of Montana Discusses States' Taxing Laws

Valuations for taxation are much alike in Montana and North Dakota, when all factors are considered, J. W. Walker, tax commissioner of Montana, said here after an investigation of taxation laws and their application. He found much in the North Dakota tax laws he favored and in some respects he favors the elaborate classification system in Montana.

With respect to railroads, he said that North Dakota valued the Great Northern Railroad $2,000 a mile more than Montana. Differences in rates and other valuations made the taxation of railroads about the same in the two states.

"I honestly believe that the railroads are paying their share of the taxes," he said.

Mr. Walker likes the North Dakota law which provides for making personal property taxes a prior lien. The state of Montana loses thousands of dollars each year in personal property taxes through not having such a law, he said.

Montana, he said, has lower valuations than North Dakota, but higher taxes. Mr. Walker is the executive officer of the new tax commission of Montana. One of the principal objectives of his department now, he said, is to apply greater taxes to the copper interests.

He favors the calling of a conference each year of taxing authorities of Washington, Montana, North and South Dakota, and perhaps two or three other states of the Northwest, for the purpose of discussing problems and agreeing upon uniform methods of actions in many cases which are the same in all the states.

MAHONEY SAYS HIS FORCES TO BE ON GUARD

Will Fight Against Repetition of Yesterday's Communist Success, He Says

CHAIRMAN IS CHOSEN

Communists Place Their Man at the Head—He Predicts Old Parties Downfall

St. Paul, June 18. (By the A. P.)—Aroused by yesterday's "misunderstanding," William Mahoney of St. Paul, leader of the conservative factions in the National Farmer-Labor Progressive convention, declared today that delegates from South Dakota, Washington, Nebraska, Montana and Minnesota have assured him "they would be on guard against a recurrence against yesterday's Communist successes."

Mahoney was named as the Minnesota member of the organization of the committee, and he is to fight for his decentralized organization plan. This is opposed by the Communists, who would have a highly centralized national party.

C. H. Hathaway of St. Paul, who in the pre-convention committee fight helped the Communists disrupt preliminary organization plans by blocking Mahoney's majority report, was named on the nomination committee by the Minnesota caucus.

SEES PARTY GAINING
St. Paul, June 18. (By the A. P.)—Prediction that the Farmer-Labor Party will eventually "dispose of the two capitalist parties that hold the power today," was made by State Senator Charles E. Taylor of Montana, in an address today formally accepting the permanent chairmanship of the National Farmer-Labor Progressive convention here.

Mr. Taylor severely criticized the Democratic and Republican parties and issued an appeal to farmers and workers to unite more closely for protection and action, and urged a ballot box "revolution."

"Out of this historic convention," said Mr. Taylor, "is destined to grow the great mass-class Farmer-Labor party, a party that in a few short years, will dispose of the two capitalist parties that hold the power today and take over the power of this nation in the name of the worker and producer of the realm, setting up a government of the workers, for the workers and by the workers."

COMMUNISTS WIN

St. Paul, June 18.—Blocking the regular program of the national Farmer-Labor-Progressive convention, the communists and their sympathizers, in the gathering, yesterday, put forward the first test of strength over the more conservative union labor and farmer elements.

The vote came at the end of a long wrangle on procedure and resulted in an adjournment with the permanent organization of the convention only half completed.

William Mahoney, St. Paul Farmer-Labor leader, had run the convention as temporary chairman through the initial stages of gathering and stepped gracefully aside to a delegate's seat in the Minnesota delegation when Charles E. Taylor, a state senator in Montana, was chosen permanent chairman.

Then the extremists began to show their strength. Duncan McDonald, Illinois, a union miner, was elected vice-chairman by acclamation. Joseph Manley, Chicago, a spokesman for the Worker's party delegation next nominated Miss Alice Lawrence Daly, Mitchell, S. D., for permanent secretary, and she was chosen by acclamation.

TREAT PLANTS LIKE CHILDREN

Burbank Tells How to Grow Flowers and Vegetables

By Luther Burbank
(Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)
Santa Rosa, Calif., June 17—Sun fertilizers are recognized everywhere as essential to good gardening.

There are two things equally essential, but far too frequently neglected. These are interest and understanding.

Myriad are the cases where two adjoining gardens will show almost disparity in productivity and attractiveness. In nine cases out of ten the reason lies in lack of these two attributes in the one garden, and their possession in the other.

Plants and flowers are like little folk. They have their likes and their dislikes, their demands and their antipathies.

These must be studied with great care in order that best results may be obtained.

It would be impossible to lay out any set of rules for this care. It differs in the case of the various plants just as it differs in the case of various children.

General Rules
Only a few general rules can be given, equally applicable to all vegetables and flowers usually grown in the amateur garden.

Young seedling plants should be watered lightly once a day until they are rooted. Do not use too much water at this stage, just enough to keep the ground moist, not wet.

After the plants have taken root, a once-a-week watering is sufficient. This should be a thorough soaking.

Reason for this is found in our simile of plants and human beings. A thirsty man will go to water if water will not come to him. So will a plant. As soon as a plant has developed roots, its one means of journeying, it will make efforts to reach water in close proximity.

If watered daily, there is no need for the roots to "feel out" for moisture. But a once-a-week watering will make the roots progress through the ground in search of available moisture, and thus you will obtain what you want, a deep rooted plant which will not need daily coddling, protection and watering.

Like Humans
The cells of plants are like those of persons. Through these they get their nourishment, brought to them by water. And they are controlled, as are those of human beings, by natural reactions. When men exercise and become heated, perspiration from their bodies opens to permit freedom in body breathing. Similar cells of plants open in warm atmosphere.

Nature has shaped the cells of plants for greatest convenience, elongated in the stem and flattened in the leaves. Food carries into plants through these long body cells goes to the leaves where it turns first to sugar and starch. The importance of seeing that these cells do not become clogged by unnatural and impedimental matter is apparent.

Do not use fertilizers unintelligently—any more than you would feed a child food which would cause it to become sick. Commercial fertilizers, and fertilization matter from poultry yard and barnyard are good complete balanced food when used intelligently with regard to the particular plants. Hard adobe soils can be softened with lime.

Just one word more in regard to a hint for increasing your interest and understanding of plants. Make your garden as attractive as possible. Make it a place where you will love to linger, finding real pleasure there instead of only a place where a certain amount of "work" must be performed.

Home Beautified
Flowers properly belong in front of the house and vegetables in the rear. But vines along a fence or the side of the house serve a double purpose one of which is beautification.

Or should you not desire to grow grape or berry vines, sweet peas along the back fence are well worth while to lend attractiveness.

A little glass house or lean-to, if space is available, is ideal for the winter and spring and will do much toward making your garden a success.

Easy accessibility to all parts of the garden is important. But do not make your pathways too wide. This is mere waste of space. A border of boards or of concrete is advisable.

I know you will find more pleasure and get much better results from your garden if you thus do every thing possible to enhance its good appearance. And then it will be a mere matter of time until you and your plants come to a full and sympathetic understanding.

CRUELTY CRIME'S SOLE DEFENSE

GIRL IN CASE

SUSAN LURIE, UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO CO-ED AND FRIEND OF NATHAN LEOPOLD, JR., WHO IS EXPECTED TO BE AN IMPORTANT STATE WITNESS.

Franks Slayers, if Sane, Could Not Have Been So Brutal, Doctors Say

BY GEORGE BRITT
NEA Service Writer

Chicago, June 17—The diabolical blackness of the murder of 14-year-old Robert Franks will be the principal asset and defense of the slayers, Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb.

This is the belief here as the city rubs its eyes at the nightmare killing which remains a cold daylight reality.

If the youthful millionaire murderers had killed primarily because they needed money, if they had killed over a woman, if they had been any element of hatred or of fear, it would be comprehensible to the man on the street. It would be an issue of simple guilt or innocence.

But there is no precedent to guide in a motiveless murder.

"Just to get a thrill," explained Leopold when asked why. If that is a reason for taking life, then black is blue or green or red.

Sane or Insane
Therefore, reason some psychiatrists, the boys must be insane. If they could conceive and carry out as incredible a plot as they did they cannot be normal.

On the other hand, some of the city's foremost minds declare they are normally sane in every respect. Their trouble, say these scientists, is not in brain and will, but in heart and conscience.

There is the point, it is expected upon which will depend whether the boys go to the gallows. Many believe the heartless, unbelievable ruthlessness will favor the insanity defense rather than strengthen the prosecution's case.

Foremost in rejecting any insanity defense talk are Hugh T. Purick, William G. Krohn and Archibald "Arch" who examined the youths while they were in the custody of State's Attorney Robert E. Crow. Notwithstanding the uniqueness of the case, it is explainable within perfectly sane limits, they assert.

Girl State Witness
Both slayers were precocious. Leopold, the supercilious aesthete, always was considered a genius. Loeb, the quick, likable profligate, was a pampered darling. And at 19, they found life a bore, with physical stimulants stale and mental adventures exhausted.

Their "thrill" explanation is logical. They are simply extreme products of the jazz age—brilliant swamp flowers with poisonous perfume.

So say the state's alienists. Among the non-technical witnesses for the state, it may be set down in advance that few will be watched more closely than Miss Susan Lurie.

BOND ISSUE OF SIX MILLIONS IS PROPOSED

Amendment Proposed by Closed Bank Depositors Association Is Given

SOLICITORS ARE OUT

Petitions for initiation of an amendment to the state constitution providing for a bond issue of $6,000,000 to reimburse depositors of closed banks, are being circulated in the state. The proposed amendment is revised from the amendment for which signatures were sought last winter.

It is proposed: To fix the limit of the state's bonded debt without security at $18,000,000.

To authorize and direct issuance of not to exceed $4,000,000 of bonds the proceeds of which are to be used to pay depositors in closed banks whose deposits are guaranteed by the Depositors Guaranty Fund Commission and not to exceed $2,000,000, the proceeds of which are to be used by the Bank of North Dakota to buy pledged notes and securities for loans to insolvent banks.

That bonds shall be sold for not less than par and bear interest not exceeding 6 percent.

Provision for the levying of an annual tax to create a sinking fund to be used in addition to monies accruing in connection with the operations of the Guaranty Fund Commission law.

The amendment would change the composition of the Guaranty Fund Commission, making the members of it the Governor, Attorney-General and Secretary of State. All the powers now vested in the Guaranty Fund Commission would be vested in the banking board.

Minot, June 17.—Working without definite clues, the Pierce county police are continuing on the trail of the three convicted burglars, who escaped only a few hours before they were to be taken to the state penitentiary.

Two of the men, Emory Arnold and Bert Kline, pleaded guilty in district court to the charge of having burglarized a store and Herbert Richmond was convicted of the same charge.

Service to Society

FUNDAMENTALLY, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is a service organization. Directors, employees and shareholders are moved by one ambition — to make this Company great in its ability to serve the community.

It was the furtherance of this ambition which caused the Management to take steps to secure a wide distribution of shares in this Company. To do this it was necessary to get the price per share down to a point where investors of moderate means would find the stock attractive. This was accomplished by distributing the working surplus among the shareholders, as a stock dividend, and reducing the par value from $100 to $25.

Today the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is owned by 46,016 shareholders — 12,135 of whom are employees; and 13,253 are women — no single shareholder owns as much as 6% of the total stock and the price per share at this writing is $57.00.

Among the larger shareholders are many educational and philanthropic institutions who depend upon the dividends derived from their holding in this Company to carry on certain phases of their work.

For example, we cite the Rockefeller Foundation and the General Educational Board whose activities extend to all parts of the world, bettering the living conditions for millions, lessening the burdens of the afflicted, enlightening the youth, and expanding the educational facilities of the world.

The service rendered to society by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is of a broad and varied nature. Not only does it supply the thirty million people of ten Middle Western States with petroleum products of superior quality in such a way as to have gained their confidence, respect and esteem, but the profits accruing to the shareholders from the operations of this Company are used in large part for the welfare of all the people and to make the world a better place in which to live.

Makes Loans to Boys so They Can Get Start

By Harry B. Hunt
NEA Service Writer

Washington, June 17—Pigs are not just pigs to Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas. To Capper, pigs signify, above all else, opportunity.

That's why Capper is prouder of being the father of the Copper Pig Clubs than he is of having been governor of his state or of his present seat in the United States Senate.

Years ago Capper found in his mail an appeal from a boy who wanted to buy a pig. His plea for a pig was so genuinely that of an ambitious youngster who wanted the porker as a toe-hold on the ladder of advancement, that Capper decided to take a chance.

He wrote the youngster a letter of commendation and encouragement, enclosing a check for enough money to buy a pig, but stipulating that the money was a loan, not a gift, and should be repaid out of profits after a herd had been developed.

This first pig thrived, produced in kind and the boy, prospering, repaid the loan. Copper felt the glow of having accomplished a real service. He would extend the idea. The Copper Pig Clubs were the result.

In these clubs, Copper goes into partnership with each member, advancing enough cash to enable the boys to start their herds, always stipulating that they buy pure bred stock.

To date he has advanced more than $100,000 to his boy partners, without any security other than this boy's honor. But he has never lost a dollar so advanced.

With the pig clubs for boys established, the idea has broadened to include poultry clubs for girls. And these have been equally successful.

Childless himself, Copper has his greatest pleasure in hearing of the success of these boys and girls whom he has assisted to a start in life. The benefits have not been economic, alone, he feels.

More than the financial aid this assistance has given the youth of his state, he believes, is the growth in character and initiative that has been developed through these clubs. He feels he is helping Kansas produce not only better pigs and poultry, but better men and women.

DAWES GIVEN RECEPTION, TO REMAIN FIRM

Denounces Demagoguery in an Address to Neighbors at Evanston Home

EUROPE'S EXAMPLE

Chicago, June 18.—Brig. General Charles G. Dawes, Republican vice-presidential nominee, held open house in Evanston last night to hosts of friends and neighbors, who came to bid him goodnight on his new home and to hear him deliver a characteristic denunciation of demagoguery.

In his first extended utterance since his nomination, General Dawes pledged himself to a common sense campaign but declared he would give no quarter to demagogues and asked them to leave him alone.

The reception assumed many of the characteristics of the front porch campaigns of President Harding and President McKinley when neighbors and intimate friends who have been driving rain to participate in the ceremonies were invited to the spacious veranda of the Dawes home.

Later when the brief speaking program was concluded General Dawes invited all into the home and shook the hand of each.

The line was more than an hour in passing and despite the fact that the general was assisted in the hand shaking by William Butler, chairman of the Republican national committee, an one of the guests at the Dawes home for dinner, the dynamic fanner and soldier grew restless.

Three Deliver Messages
Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university, James A. Patton, former president of the Chicago board of trade, and J. V. Slatfor, Chicago publisher, all friends and neighbors of the vice-presidential nominee, delivered the messages of felicitation.

General Dawes, in part, said: "I know you want me to say something and yet upon such an occasion as this it would be unbecomingly for me to speak in a partisan manner. But it occurs to me that there is one subject which may be called political and yet is thoroughly nonpartisan—a subject upon which all good citizens, whatever may be their party, must agree and that is the curse of demagoguery in political discussions in this country. To such an extent has it grown this evil among the politicians of both parties that the real life and the economic principles involved in questions of national policy are continually obscured by a dense and putrid fog of demagogic argument, designed simply for the purpose of forwarding selfish personal political and group interests."

Europe Crushed by Demagoguery
"I have recently returned from Europe where I have seen in proscribed industry and human suffering the effects of five years of demagogic political appeals to the passions and prejudices of the different peoples as distinguished from appeals to their reason and common sense. To the very brink of the abyss has Europe been brought by this method of treating serious questions, involving great elemental and economic principles. To save herself she has abandoned the demagogic and returned to common sense."

"An orgy of demagoguery has been running rife in the world and we here in the United States are feeling its devastating effects. All good Republicans and all good Democrats who put their country above their party demand the beginning of an era of common sense in public discussions."

"As human beings whatever may be our party, we are bound to differ on many subjects, but as good citizens we can unite to demand from those who represent us in political debate that they present our differences honestly and from the standpoint of truth—not from the standpoint of passion and prejudice."

"In the campaign which is before me, and as a duty which I owe not simply to a party, but to the citizens of the United States, I pledge myself to adhere to the truth and to the common sense conclusions to be drawn therefrom."

MOFFIT

Farmers and shareholders of the Farm telephone line, which operates west of Moffit, central located at Bismarck, has purchased a stretch of line wire, poles and etc., which is being moved from east of Moffit. The stretch of line being removed starts at Beata and ends at McKenzie. This part of telephone equipment will be installed again, immediately as a continuation of the farmers line between Morton township and Bismarck. Telephone poles and wire have been moving quickly the past week. About fifteen or twenty farmers have been working on this job of moving. The purchase was made from the Independent telephone line.

The baseball game played between Menoken and Moffit teams, at Menoken last Sunday proved victorious for the Moffit team by a score of 10-2. Hurras for Moffit and Menoken, both.

The children's day program given at the Moffit Methodist church was very good and a large crowd in attendance. The little folks did splendid. June 15, 1924 will always be a red letter day to several four and five years old maids and laddies, who made their first public appearance on that day.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Moffit entertained at Sunday dinner the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Jason Hoover and family, Mr. and Mrs. George Morrison and family, Miss

Mr. Chester Heatt, brother of Rolla Heatt, died at his home in California, near Fair Oaks recently. The two brothers, Chester and Rolla always worked together up to the time Chester went to California, sometime in 1920.

Mrs. Elvin Hoover and son, Clarence were shopping in town Monday.

A very large crowd attended the "speaking" here at Moffit on Monday evening, the 16th of June. The evening was so still and pleasant that the meeting was conducted out of doors, the speeches were made and delivered from the platform of the village cream station. Mr. J. N. Hagan was the able speaker of the day and Mr. Fred Argast was made chairman of the meeting. Many visitors from surrounding villages were present. The meeting here was a great success in more ways than one.

It is reported here that very small hopes are given by the doctors at Bismarck, as to the recovery of Mr. Jos. Mills, who was shot while out fishing by George Corbin. Both men reside near Hazelton, N. D.

Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Dralle and daughter, Inez, were pleasant callers at the home of F. W. Moffit recently.

Emil, the local elevator operator has left Moffit and gone on a vacation it is understood. Clare Porter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Porter has been called to take charge at the elevator during Emil's absence.

The lovely rains which this locality has been enjoying in the past two weeks have made possible a much larger acreage of flax, it being too dry previous to June 2, to do any breaking or plowing for flax. The work of sowing the 1924 crop is now completed here.

Mrs. Edward Dehaan has fully recovered from her recent illness and is again active as usual.

Mrs. Albert Faust, who has been ill at the Bismarck hospital for the past five weeks or more is expected home very soon. Mrs. Green, a sister of Mr. Faust is in charge of the little children and the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Faust.

BENNETT CASE JURY DIVIDES, IS DISCHARGED

Unable to Reach Verdict in Case Involving Nuisance Allegations

A jury in district court, after being out from 5:15 o'clock last evening wrestling with the case charging John and Anna Bennett with maintaining a public nuisance at 1010 Front street, Bismarck, informed District Judge Jansoni shortly before noon today that it was hopelessly divided, and was discharged. It was reported the jury was divided, 7 to 5, in the case.

The state, through the Attorney-General's office, charged the Bennetts with maintaining a public nuisance in that liquor was sold on the premises, and the charge was resisted by the defendants. A flurry was occasioned in the court room late yesterday when Manuel (Mexican Joe) Hernandez was called to the witness stand. When he failed to answer questions propounded by the state as expected, Philip Elliott, assistant attorney general, read a list of questions and asked the witness if he had not testified according to the written answers, before him on Sunday. The testimony as represented by Mr. Elliott included a statement that Hernandez had purchased a bottle of whiskey from Mrs. Bennett for $20 and had later stolen 14 bottles of liquor, and also that Bennett had sought to induce him to testify.

Hernandez's answers were "obviously evasive," according to Judge Jansoni, who ordered the sheriff to throw him in jail. Later Hernandez was brought back and placed on the stand, but his memory was poor. He either did not remember, or had not so testified, or if he had, he was incapacitated at the time.

The case of Claude Rossen, charged with engaging in the liquor traffic, followed the Bennett case.

Chicago, June 18.—Wheat and corn went up with a rush today as soon as the market opened. All deliveries of both cereals jumped to new high prices for the season. A sharp advance in wheat quotations at Liverpool was largely responsible for the ascent of the market here, especially at Winnipeg prices showed even more advance than Chicago. Heavy profit-taking sales, however, led to some reaction. The opening which ranged from $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{1}{4}$ higher, July $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{1}{4}$ and September $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{1}{4}$; was followed by a rise that amounted to nearly two cents in some cases before a setback took place.

RUTH LAW TAKES TO AIR
AGAIN AFTER SWEARING OFF

RUTH LAW, AVIATRIX. EXAMING AN AIRPLANE, WHICH SHE WILL USE WHEN SHE TAKES TO THE AIR AGAIN.

By Stephen Hannagan
NEA Service Writer
New York, June 18.—Ruth Law has sprouted another pair of wings.

The world's most famous and daring aviatrix whose flying wings were clipped two years ago by the nervous breakdown of her husband, Charles Oliver, whom she has nursed back to health, will soon take to the air again.

"There is no kick in golf, horseback riding is tame and I long for the thrill of higher altitudes," Ruth confided.

"Now that my husband, to whom I have been married ten years, and who suffered a nervous collapse induced by my insistent and consistent flying, has fully recovered, I am going to fly again," she explained.

"Since his illness grounded me, there has been a new development in aviation, a development that startled a dormant flying world, and I want to have my hand in its ultimate use. It is the helicopter, which raises and lowers a ship from a small field, permitting safety in taking off and landing planes."

"I began flying in 1910 in Boston, in my biplane. In ten years in the air she wore out two ships and never had a single mishap."

"The highest I have been for two years," she chuckled, "was on top of my hotel."

Miss Law was the first woman to loop the loop with an airplane. She established a new world's long distance flight record in 1916 when she flew a ship from Chicago to New York, making only one stop for fuel.

She was also the first woman to fly at night.

"The most foolish stunt I ever performed," she apologized, "was to stand upright on the wing of a plane while the pilot looped the loop. I shan't do any more stunt work, but shall confine my flights to experimental work in the interest of the flying I love so well."

Miss Law declined to discuss her age, but her blue eyes flash just as enthusiastically as they did when she toured the United States, making exhibition flights in every principal city. Her blond hair hasn't changed a bit—but she is a trifle heavier than she used to be.

"Yes it's true that flying is reducing," she laughed, "you know I gained ten pounds within a few weeks after I stopped flying."

"When I am constantly flying exerting so much nervous energy, I never have to watch the food calorie chart."

ROTARIANS TO BACK THE BOY'S WORK

What the Boys Need Is Contact
With the Business Men

Toronto, June 18.—Spare the caddies on the golf links the profanity following missed strokes, the double meaning stories told on the greens and while making the round of the links, plead International President Guy Gundaker of Rotary International during the course of his annual address to Rotarians from all parts of the world assembled here for the 15th annual convention of the organization.

Rotary is pledged to choose as its members the most able men in a community who enlist themselves for community service, President Gundaker said. And one of the most important of community services performed by Rotary lies in its boys work. Too many people regard what they do as members of an organization—in the mass—as finishing their obligation to their fellow men.

"Boys," said President Gundaker, "get their habits of mind and conduct from the men with whom they are thrown in contact. The Rotarian should extend his boys work to the new boy, the office boy, the delivery boy, the messenger boys and to the golf links where the players have great opportunity to 'mould the lives of the caddies. Every caddy should find in the mature readiness man—golfer a personality worthy of emulation."

"Boys everywhere need good men to help them," said President Gundaker, "but whether your boys work activity is in the mass or whether you are active in friendly and helpfulness to individual boys, don't forget your own boy. The most valuable Christmas gift a banker friend of mine made his boy was one hour of his time every day and two hours on Sundays and holidays. This time was given without reference to business, social or other engagements by my friend. And it is the greatest investment that man of much money and many investments ever made."

Reports will be made on the progress of the work of developing codes of ethical practices in business and professions through the influence of Rotarian members of national, international, state and provincial trade and professional associations. Work among boys and crippled children and problems of Rotary club administration will be discussed.

Chicago, Cleveland and Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, are the leading cities for bidding for the next convention.

"Rotary's destiny is the establishment of a world fellowship of business and professional men, united in the Rotary idea of service," said President Guy Gundaker opening the 15th annual Rotary convention. "A world fellowship, while necessarily contingent on the extent and successful establishment of Rotary in all the nations of the world, is likewise contingent on the correctness of the standards of business practice of the men privileged to enter that fellowship," he continued. SEE INCREASE
IN MEMBERSHIP

Officials of the North Dakota Wheat Growers Association estimate that from five to ten thousand new members will be enrolled in the organization during the wheat pool drive which started June 16.

About 3,000 voluntary workers are now actively engaged in signing up new members, which work will be continued until harvest time, when the busy season will prevent a great many farmers from doing active work. However the regular field staff of the association will continue the membership campaign until the snow flies, in order that the majority of the wheat producers of the state can be enrolled, according to Secretary Scott.

MARKET NEWS

WHEAT, CORN
IN ADVANCEGo Up Sharply at Opening of Trade Today

Chicago, June 18.—Wheat and corn went up with a rush today as soon as the market opened. All deliveries of both cereals jumped to new high price records for the season. A sharp advance in wheat quotations at Liverpool was largely responsible for the ascent of the market here, especially at Winnipeg prices showed even more advance than Chicago. Heavy profit-taking sales, however, led to some reaction. The opening which ranged from 1/2c to 1 1/2c higher, July $1.16 to 1/2c and September $1.17 1/4 to 1/2c; was followed by a rise that amounted to nearly two cents in some cases before a setback took place.

"In my opinion, Rotary's most lasting contribution to the world will be found in the realm of business, in the making of a happier, more contented; more kindly, more cooperative, and more honorable business world, you have the solution for all the other betterments sought. With an honorable business world, happiness, contentment, kindness and cooperation must and will prevail."
"With correct business methods, world-wide, the business men of all nations, meeting on this common ground, will establish great international friendships and good-will—friendships which will harbingers of everlasting peace.

"One of the ultimate objects of written codes is to standardize conduct so that all fellow-craftsmen in any line of business can compete with one another on an equality of opportunity. Where men compete on different business standards, there is no equality of opportunity.
"Likewise, competition between men of different standards of business methods is unfair competition. Standardization of right conduct will destroy unfair competition, and written codes of rules of conduct provide the only way for such standardization. When business men compete on a common ground of high business standards, sales will be made on the basis of service, and then of that paradox of the imagination—cooperative competition—will be a reality."

Code Campaign
"The greatest contribution made by Rotary in its code campaign is the insistence that codes must be made up of rules of conduct expressed as 'Shall' or 'Shall not.' Those codes not written as rules of conduct, nor expressed as 'Shall' or 'Shall not' fail to accomplish the purpose for which they were written; namely, the standardization of conduct."
"Of the 51 codes adopted since the start of Rotary's campaign for codes, 27 of which are the codes of great national organizations, a careful estimate indicates that 200,000 business men, unassociated with Rotary, are now working under adequate codes which direct them in ethical conduct. This is a great practical demonstration of the results secured by Rotarians as ambassadors to their crafts, and also a conclusive proof of the leavening effect of Rotary upon the whole business world."

Ethical Conduct
"Ethical conduct of business, emphasized and spread throughout the world, will greatly diminish the inclination and disposition on the part of the peoples of the different nations to fight one another. Unity for achievement will be found in Rotary's campaign for written codes of correct standards of business practice."

IN MEMBERSHIP

Officials of the North Dakota Wheat Growers Association estimate that from five to ten thousand new members will be enrolled in the organization during the wheat pool drive which started June 16.
About 3,000 voluntary workers are now actively engaged in signing up new members, which work will be continued until harvest time, when the busy season will prevent a great many farmers from doing active work. However the regular field staff of the association will continue the membership campaign until the snow flies, in order that the majority of the wheat producers of the state can be enrolled, according to Secretary Scott.

DAWES GIVEN RECEPTION, TO REMAIN FIRM

Denounces Demagoguery in an Address to Neighbors at Evanston Home

EUROPE'S EXAMPLE

Chicago, June 18.—General Charles G. Dawes, Republican presidential nominee, will spend the night at Evanston, Ill., tonight, and will be given a reception by friends and neighbors, who called to greet him on his way home from the Democratic convention at Chicago.

In his first extended appearance since his nomination, General Dawes declared himself to be a firm supporter of the party which elected him, but declared he would give no political advice to his neighbors.

The reception at Evanston, which was given by the friends of the general, was held at the home of Mrs. J. W. Moffit, who is a close friend of the general.

Three deliver messages. Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university, James A. Patten, former president of the Chicago board of trade, and J. C. Shaffer, Chicago publisher, all friends and neighbors of the vice-presidential nominee, delivered messages.

General Dawes, in part, said: "I agree you want me to say something and yet upon such an occasion as this it would be unduly for me to speak in a particular manner. But it occurs to me that there is one subject which may be called political and yet is thoroughly nonpartisan—a subject upon which all good citizens, whatever may be their party, must agree. That is the curse of demagoguery in political discussions in this country. To such an extent has grown this evil among the politicians of both parties that the real issues and the economic principles involved in questions of national policy are continually obscured by a dense and painful fog of demagogic argument, designed simply for the purpose of forwarding selfish personal political and group interests."

Europe Crushed by Demagoguery. "I have recently returned from Europe where I have seen in protest industry and human suffering the effects of five years of demagogic political appeals to the passions and prejudices of the different peoples as distinguished from appeals to their reason and common sense. To the very brink of the abyss has Europe been brought by this method of treating serious questions, involving great elemental and economic principles. To save herself she has abandoned the demagogic and returned to common sense."

"An orgy of demagoguery has been running rife in the world and we here in the United States are feeling its devastating effects. All good Republicans and all good Democrats who put their country above their party demand the beginning of an era of common sense in public affairs."

"As human beings, whatever may be our party, we are bound to differ on many subjects, but as good citizens we can unite to demand from those who represent us in political debate that they present our differences honestly and from the standpoint of truth, not from the standpoint of passion and prejudice."

"In the campaign which is before me, and as a duty which I owe not simply to a party, but to the citizens of the United States, I pledge myself to adhere to the truth and to the common sense conclusions to be drawn therefrom."

News of Our Neighbors

MOFFIT
Farmers and shareholders of the Farm telephone line, which operates west of Moffit, central located at Bismarck, has purchased a stretch of line wire, poles and etc., which is being moved from east of Moffit. The stretch of line being removed starts at Besoba and ends at McKenzie. This part of telephone equipment will be installed again immediately as a continuation of the farmers line between Morton township and Bismarck. Telephone poles and wire have been moving quickly the past week. About fifteen or twenty farmers have been working on this job of moving. The purchase was made from the independent telephone line.

The baseball game played between Menoken and Moffit teams, at Menoken last Sunday proved victorious for the Moffit team by a score of 2-0. Horrahs for Moffit and Menoken, both.

The children's day program given at the Moffit Methodist church was very good and a large crowd was in attendance. The fifth folks said splendid. June 16, 1924 will always be a day to remember to several young and old folks and ladies, who made their first public appearance on that day.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Moffit entertained at Sunday dinner the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. John Hoover and family, Mr. and Mrs. George Morrison and family, Miss

They're Married Again — Temporarily

Fannie Hurst, novelist, has called off her celebrated "part time" marriage arrangement with her husband, Jacques Danielson, and is shown here ready to sail for Europe. They will occupy the same suite and have their meals together on the boat but, once in Europe, the "separate marriage" is on again. She will go to Florence to work on a new novel and he will go to Vienna. Their ocean trip, says she, is a "second honeymoon."

The Dunham Lumber Co. at Moffit received two cars of lumber from Mr. M. McNally, son of the manager of this yard and Mr. C. E. Moffit are unloading the cars.

Mr. Chester Heatt, brother of Rolla Heatt, died at his home in California, near Fair Oaks recently. The two brothers, Chester and Rolla, always worked together up to the time Chester went to California, sometime in 1920.

Mrs. Elvin Hoover and son, Clarence were shopping in town Monday.

A very large crowd attended the "spooking" here at Moffit on Monday evening, the 16th of June. The evening was so still and pleasant that the meeting was conducted out of doors, the speeches were made and delivered from the platform of the village cream station. Mr. J. N. Hagan was the able speaker of the day and Mr. Fred Argast was made chairman of the meeting. Many visitors from surrounding villages were present. The meeting here was a great success in more ways than one.

It is reported here that very small hopes are given by the doctors at Bismarck, as to the recovery of Mr. J. M. Mills, who was shot while out fishing by George Corbin. Both men reside near Hazelton, N. D.

Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Drallo and daughter, Lucie were pleasant callers at the home of F. W. Moffit recently.

Emil, the local elevator operator has left Moffit and gone on a vacation it is understood. Clare Porter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Porter has been called to take charge at the elevator during Emil's absence.

The lovely rains which this locality has been enjoying in the past two weeks have made possible a much larger acreage of flax, it being too dry previous to June 2, to do any breaking or plowing for flax. The work of sowing the 1924 crop is now completed here.

Mrs. Edward Dehaan has fully recovered from her recent illness and is again active as usual.

Mrs. Albert Faust, who has been ill at the Bismarck hospital for the past five weeks or more is expected home very soon. Mrs. Green, a sister of Mr. Faust is in charge of the little children and the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Faust.

Respectfully,
I. C. DAVIES.

BENNETT CASE JURY DIVIDES, IS DISCHARGED

Unable to Reach Verdict in Case Involving Nuisance Allegations

A jury in district court, after being out from 5:15 o'clock last evening wrestling with the case charging John and Anna Bennett with maintaining a public nuisance at 1010 Front street, Bismarck, informed District Judge Janssonus shortly before noon today that it was hopelessly divided, and was discharged. It was reported the jury was divided, 7 to 5, in the case.

The state, through the Attorney General's office, charged the Bennetts with maintaining a public nuisance in that liquor was sold on the premises, and the charge was resisted by the defendants.

A flurry was occasioned in the court room late yesterday when Manuel (Mexican Joe) Hernandez was called to the witness stand.

When he failed to answer questions propounded by the state as expected, Philip Elliott, assistant attorney general, read a list of questions and asked the witness if he had not testified according to the written answers, before him on Sunday. The testimony as represented by Mr. Elliott included a statement that Hernandez had purchased a bottle of whiskey from Mrs. Bennett for $20 and had later stolen 14 bottles of liquor, and also that Bennett had bought to induce him to testify.

Hernandez's answers were "obviously evasive," according to Judge Janssonus, who ordered the sheriff to throw him in jail. Later Hernandez was brought back and placed on the stand, but his memory was poor. He either did not remember, or had not so testified, or if he had, he was inappreciated at the time.

The case of Claude Rossen, charged with engaging in the liquor traffic, followed the Bennett case.

WEDDING

From the ancient Egyptians we get our custom of the wedding ring and the bridegroom's promise (usually deceitful): "With all my worldly goods I thee endow." So says Howard Carter, who dug King Tut out of the sand and oblivion.

The wedding ring of modern times is a survival of the seal to the bridegroom's treasure chests. This seal was handed to the bride to signify 50-50 ownership.

We still use the ring. But the struggle to make a living is so intense that few bridegrooms have any treasure chests. These come later—very occasionally.

ITALIA

Italy is as rich now as she was before the war, reports a big New York bank. Hard work has replaced her war losses of 2000 millions of dollars worth of property. Counting her provinces acquired as a result of the war settlement, she's richer than in 1914.

This looks good on paper. But be prepared to run if you spring it on a resident of Italy who's paying high taxes and war-inflated prices. A war is a loss, no matter whether a country wins or loses. War is a hemorrhage of national vitality and national wealth.

ORIENT

To the orient Americans have sold 700 million dollars worth of exports in the 12 months ending June 30.

In the year before the war, the figure was only 200 millions.

Allowing for inflated prices, the physical volume of trade has almost doubled.

That's our big foreign-trade future—out toward the sunset. Europe is crumbling to join the lost civilization of Egypt, India, Arabia and Babylonia.

MOVIES

In making movies, 25 cents out of each $1 goes to actors, says a writer in the Wall Street Journal. He finds, by analyzing movie makers' books, that 10 cents is spent for scenarios and stories for every 25 cents paid to actors.

Either the actors' salaries are magnified tremendously by the press agents, or writing for the pictures is more profitable than is generally known in the writing business.

Most magazines of big circulation are becoming little more than production factories for the screen.

MARS

Mars this summer will be closer to the earth than for nearly a century. At that, though, it'll be 31 million miles away. But astronomers are going to make a supreme attempt to find out if people live on Mars and, if so, to communicate with them. A few months will bring this attempt to the front pages of newspapers.

Mars may not be inhabited, but surely the earth is not the only heavenly body that supports intelligent life. To believe otherwise requires colossal egotism. Many have it in sufficient quantity.

ROADS

Better roads and more of them are constantly being made available to the motor tourist. Fourteen thousand miles of highway, built with federal aid (Uncle Sam's financial help), are now under construction, to cost 262 million dollars.

More than twice that much has been appropriated since the federal aid road act became law in 1916.

It would be wiser to build for lastingness rather than mileage. A considerable part of our roads wear out so fast, it's like pouring public money down the sewer.

READING

Heaven help us, several colleges have installed courses teaching book agents how to ply their trade. Fortunately, they specialize at selling from behind the counter in stores.

And that job requires education. More so steadily, say speakers at a convention of book dealers. They find people are "thinking more," increasingly buying volumes on serious subjects. And movies and radio have stimulated book sales instead of curtailing them as many once expected.

VALUES

A coal operator kicks because a penny, which will buy only one stick of gum, will purchase an average of 216 cubic inches of coal containing 147,000 British Thermal Units of heat.

But that's nothing to the heat generated by a used stick of gum when we step or sit on it. This heat, generated in anger, will, no doubt, be put to work as soon as they learn how to conserve the energy wasted when a dog wags its tail.

CANADA

In a year we have sold Canada 601 million dollars worth of goods and bought from her 431 millions.

The balance in our favor isn't as important as the fact that trade between the two countries is increasing steadily. Twelve per cent a year is the gain. And Canada is one of the very few countries where we are sure of getting our money.

PROSPEROUS

In the whole world are about 18,200,000 autos. And all except three millions of these are here in the United States. Our country has nine times as many autos as all Europe combined.

America is the real "land of milk and honey." Despite this, there is much discontent—fortunately so, for discontent indicates a desire for better conditions and willingness to toil to create them.

In Tiro, O., a man has received a letter mailed 63 years ago, but bills never act that way.

JAPANESE FRIENDLINESS

Friends of Japan, disturbed by the anti-American agitation in that country, will welcome the friendly statement of certain Japanese organizations in New York. They, while regretting the methods adopted by Congress in terminating the gentlemen's agreement, characterize the recent unfriendly manifestations in Japan as "unworthy actions setting violence against violence; while we criticize anti-Japanese agitators, we are actually following their narrow example." These Japanese call attention to the fact that "the treatment daily accorded to Japanese in the United States by Americans is as cordial and friendly as it has been in the past," and they add that their experience has shown them "that there are many Americans who love justice and righteousness and who are sincerely solicitous for future good relations between our two countries." Such an offset to the jingoists in Japan, and, incidentally, such a fair presentation of America's true attitude, is surely now that the new Japanese Ministry has been formed.

Although the new Premier, Viscount Kato, is no especial friend of the United States, the fact that Baron Shidehara, formerly Ambassador in Washington, is to head the Foreign Office means that Americans will have a friend in court who thoroughly understands their point of view, and who knows that they have no dislike for the Japanese, nor wish them harm. There is further good news in the report that Viscount Ishii is to take the place of Ambassador Hanhara, whose resignation was confirmed some time ago. This makes it plain that the Japanese Government is determined to do all in its power to strengthen the ties between the two countries. Viscount Ishii is one of Japan's ablest diplomats, who knows well the problems dividing the two countries. He came to America on a special mission in 1917, and at the time concluded with Secretary Lansing an agreement called Lansing-Ishii agreement setting forth Japan's special interests in China. This understanding was abrogated as a result of negotiations at the Washington conference.

When Ambassador Hanhara returns to his country he will be able to confirm the truth of the statement made by the Japanese organizations in New York about the essential friendliness of the American people for Japan, and the general regret that Congress saw fit to choose such rude means of obtaining an object which Japan was more than ready to agree to diplomatically. He will be able to tell them the people of the United States, East and West, are earnestly desirous of doing all in their power to work in harmony with the people of Japan.—New York Times.

GRAVES ON TOP OF GRAVES

Ethnologists have been surprised time and again in the last quarter of a century by the revelations that the stonegraves have furnished of a prehistoric American people. Now it is discovered that a still more ancient race is buried beneath the one that had disappeared before white men came to America.

The discovery came purely as an accident. Dr. John Walter Fawkes, chief of the bureau of American ethnology of the Smithsonian Institution, was excavating a stone grave, century on Viceroy's Island, off the coast of Florida.

The picks of his diggers struck through the graves of the prehistoric race remnants of life so old that he has not attempted to assign it to a historical period. It was a fortunate accident for science that the two graveyards, centuries apart in time, were located one on top of the other.

The earlier burials, Dr. Fawkes has reported, are typical of early periods in human development. Just how ancient he believes those graves to be will probably not become known until he returns to his office in Washington and has time to work up his data systematically. The theory, so long held, that America was peopled from Asia has long been tottering. Possibly it is now about to be disproved.—Outlook.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

The next night when Johnny Jump Up, the garden fairy, awakened the Twins and the three of them had climbed down the rose vine into the magic garden, the little fairy skipped over to a patch of yellow flowers and stopped.

"Do you know what these are?" he asked.

"Sort of," said Nancy. "I've seen something like them before."

"These are English primroses," said Johnny Jump Up. "In America primroses are pink and purple, but in England they are yellow, and come out early in the spring."

"Why don't you let them grow for themselves?" said a silvery voice.

And the Twins beheld a lovely little fairy standing in the primrose patch. "The Fairy Queen said you had telephoned for three tickets to England," said the fairy, "so I got them and flew here as fast as I could come. But you are talking and talking as though you never would get through."

"Why, you're talking and talking yourself," said Johnny Jump Up crossly.

"Now you're both talking," said still another voice. "This is the best place I ever saw. Now that you have your tickets and everything is settled, why can't we start?"

And there stood the titmouse.

They Won't Catch the Old Master Napping

FABLES ON HEALTH—CHOOSING RIGHT FOODS

Like a great many fathers, Mr. Jones who was too indulgent with the children.

He did not realize that in the few hours that he was at home he could undo a great deal of training undergone by Mrs. Jones during the long hours of the day when they were under her direct control.

Mrs. Jones tried her best to educate the children to enjoy a normal, nutritious diet.

It has been pointed out that nature overlooked the human family when it was distributing the instinct for food selection. It is perhaps unfortunate that children, unlike the young of lower animals, were not given the instinct of choosing the right foods. This obligation falls upon the parents. The judgment of a good many parents in matters of child diet is sadly limited.

The need of nourishing food is a paramount one during the pre-school period, which is one of rapid growth and great activity. Protein foods are fine body builders and should be high in the list—including milk, eggs, green vegetables and cereals.

Some meat should be included for their animal proteins, which some physicians declare to be of higher grade than vegetable proteins. Minerals and salts are necessary for the development of the young bones.

"Of course I didn't," laughed Johnny merrily. "I was only fooling. Please excuse me."

"Oh, do come or," begged the titmouse. "It's a long way to England and back and the moon looks wet. I'm quite sure it will rain."

So away they went on the titmouse's back.

"That's famous for lots of things," London Bridge that's always falling down, and the place Dick Whittington came to before he got his cat and became lord mayor, and the place the little boy came to get himself a wife because the rats and the mice did lead him such a life, and the place Puss in Boots came to, and everything.

"And it's the place the king lives," added Johnny Jump Up. "And the queen, too, and the Prince of Wales, and a lot of other important people."

"But where are the primroses?" asked Nancy. "I don't see one."

"Of course, not," said Johnny Jump Up. "They're out in the country. Fly on, titmouse."

Johnny Jump Up was right. The country was yellow with primroses out in the country. And a lovely sight they were.

"Is that all there is in England—London Tower and primroses?" asked Nick.

"Goodness, no!" said Johnny Jump Up. "But if we stayed to see one hundredth part of it all we wouldn't get home until the week after next. Home, titmouse, if you please."

NEVER AN END TO TROUBLES

By Albert Apple

The butcher who keeps his hand on the scales and weighs it in with the steak may be known to many of you. And, no doubt, you comment about the crookedness and petty cheating of this day and age when things are going to the bow-wow.

Things, by the way, are always going to the bow-wow—in all generations, all centuries.

More than 400 years ago a famous French preacher named Oliver Maillard rose up in his pulpit and pronounced a curse on "those who, when they weigh, press down the scales with their finger."

Preacher Maillard took a rap at "tavernkeepers who sophisticate and mingle wines." . . . And after four centuries most bootleggers are doing the same thing—adulterating liquor.

Maillard denounced "butchers who blow up their meat, and who mix hog's lard with the fat of their meat." . . . The popular trick in 1924 is to feed the fowl a lot of corn just before killing it, or pour gravel in its gullet to make it weigh heavier.

Maillard championed the downtrodden poor by boldly telling his rich congregation: "If you ladies and gentlemen who are bawling on your pleasures and wear scarlet clothes, I believe if you were closely put in a good wine-press we should see the blood of the poor gush out."

The more a man studies the histories of long-departed generations, the more impressed he is that people have the same basic troubles no matter in what century they live.

Troubles have no end. They seem to be perpetual. True, there is a never-ending fight against these chronic troubles. But the troubles persist despite no end of denunciation and indignation.

Are we really getting anywhere, through the ages? Or are we just kidding ourselves?

Nature doesn't want us to have things easy. Occasionally it may seem that life is a jail, troubles part of a sentence we are serving for sins of a previous existence. The real answer, of course, is that troubles and obstacles are sent to develop and bring out the best that's in us.

Preacher Maillard was simply wasting his breath.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT, CARE THE SECRET DRAWER

My, it seems good to get home again. I wonder if you have missed me, dear little Marquise? I was so glad to get back and find that mother Prescott had not found your secret drawer, that is so full of my confidences now instead of yours.

The last day of my stay in New York was rather unhappy.

Alice acted like a petulant child. It seems that when I elected to stay at home and not go with the family to the opera on the evening before my departure, Karl was much disappointed.

He seemed to think that as it was our last evening in New York I should not stay away from his party, which I found out afterward he had planned on a magnificent scale, beginning with a box at the Metropolitan Opera House, and ending with a gorgeous supper and dancing at the Little Club.

"He acted as though you were the guest of honor, Les," Alice said.

"Well, wasn't she?" asked mother quietly, who was standing by. "I cannot understand you, Alice, since you returned from England. You know you cannot always be the center of attraction. I have felt often since we have been staying here in New York that had I been Karl I would have boxed your ears."

Alice looked at mother disgustedly and frowned out of the room.

"I am afraid we left Alice too long in England alone, Leslie. Karl has evidently spoiled her. She expects him to be at her beck and call every minute."

"Oh, little Marquise, I wish I hadn't promised Karl to tell. If I had not I would then and there have told mother the whole story."

I am going to put those pearls in the little secret drawer here and keep them out of my sight for a long time.

It is a strange thing that while I have been perfectly innocent in this matter those ill-fated gems have made me unhappy ever since my marriage, and now because I foolishly told Karl I would keep them I can't even tell Jack about them.

Ruth says, Jack might forgive me the pearls because he would realize that at first I did not know they were real, but he would never forgive me for letting Karl pay $15,000 to keep the string intact.

As it is, I have just got to sit tight and hope for the best.

ORATORY TO PLAY TELLING PART IN DEM CONVENTION

BY HARRY B. HUNT
NEA Service Writer

Washington, June 18—How will the Democratic convention react to eloquence?

That is the question friends of two of the dark horse possibilities are asking. For on the oratory of one and the same speaker depends to a very great extent the fortunes in the convention of the two presidential entries from the Buckeye state.

James M. Cox, Democratic nominee in 1920, will have behind him a delegation from Ohio instructed to fight for his nomination for a second chance at the presidency.

None of these delegates believes Cox stands any reasonable chance of nomination.

Women Voters To Hold Mass Meeting Friday

A mass meeting is called for Friday evening at eight o'clock to be at a noon-day luncheon at the Grand Pacific Hotel to perfect the organization of League of Women Voters in Bismarck.

Regional organizer, Mrs. J. R. Parkes was here a week ago and a temporary organization was effected at a noon-day luncheon at the Grand Pacific dining room, when twenty-five women assembled to consider the project of organization, under the direction of Mrs. Parkes. The officers for the temporary organization have been at work during the week and now have a complete working plan, with recommendations for the permanent organization ready.

At the meeting on Friday evening, the nominating committee will submit their report for President, Vice-President, Secretary and Treasurer.

This will be a mass meeting for all interested women of Bismarck, regardless of political affiliations. In fact it is the hope of the regional director, that the meeting may be multi-political, in order that the training in citizenship and government offered by the League of Women Voters may be brought back to the political group of each individual member, thereby perfecting women in the new business of participation in government affairs. All interested women are invited. The hour is eight o'clock on the evening of Friday, June 18th, and the place is the parlor of the Grand Pacific Hotel.

He is now salesman for the Fuller Brush company, and makes his headquarters in Bismarck. Mrs. Liebelt has long been a resident of this city. Women Voters To Hold Mass Meeting Friday

A mass meeting is called for Friday evening at eight o'clock to be at a noon-day luncheon at the Grand Pacific Hotel to perfect the organization of League of Women Voters in Bismarck.

Regional organizer, Mrs. J. R. Parkes was here a week ago and a temporary organization was effected at a noon-day luncheon at the Grand Pacific dining room, when twenty-five women assembled to consider the project of organization, under the direction of Mrs. Parkes. The officers for the temporary organization have been at work during the week and now have a complete working plan, with recommendations for the permanent organization ready.

At the meeting on Friday evening, the nominating committee will submit their report for President, Vice-President, Secretary and Treasurer.

This will be a mass meeting for all interested women of Bismarck, regardless of political affiliations. In fact it is the hope of the regional director, that the meeting may be multi-political, in order that the training in citizenship and government offered by the League of Women Voters may be brought back to the political group of each individual member, thereby perfecting women in the new business of participation in government affairs. All interested women are invited. The hour is eight o'clock on the evening of Friday, June 19th, and the place is the parlor of the Grand Pacific Hotel.

Honors Guest At Bridge Luncheon

Mrs. T. E. Flaherty, 815 Second street, entertained at a pretty one o'clock bridge luncheon yesterday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Chabot, of San Diego, Cal. Baskets of cut flowers and garden flowers were graceful decorations through the rooms. Bridge was played at three tables, all the guests being old time friends of Mrs. Chabot, nee Florence Gage, who is well known in Bismarck. Friends went to Mrs. Chabot's home to Mrs. Charles Staley. Mrs. Chabot expects to spend several weeks in Bismarck where she is visiting old friends.

ANNOUNCE MARRIAGE

The announcement of the marriage of Miss Anna May Van Vleet, daughter of Mrs. Belle Van Vleet, and Emanuel Liebelt, of this city, which took place during the Christmas holidays, on January 4, comes as a surprise to the many friends of the young couple. The marriage was kept secret, because Miss Van Vleet wished to complete her work at the Bismarck high school, from which she graduated this spring.

Mr. Liebelt is a graduate of the Bismarck Business College, and was formerly employed with the Bank of North Dakota. He is now salesman for the Fuller Brush company, and makes his headquarters in Bismarck. Mrs. Liebelt has long been a resident of this city. Following a trip to the West, Mr. and Mrs. Liebelt will make their home in this city, at the home of Mrs. Belle Van Vleet.

Dr. and Mrs. Grewer took a short trip to Minneapolis and Detroit by car, before coming to Bismarck where Dr. Grewer is a well known practitioner.

Hughes, leader of the Legion, who requests that all the members meet at the Baptist church at 2, and they will be then taken to the Port in cars.

In a recent membership campaign, in which the Blues and the Reds competed in soliciting new members, the Reds lost, and will provide the lunch for the Blues at the picnic. The Blues pledged eight more members than their opponents.

All the W. C. T. U. women are invited to attend the picnic, and are asked to bring their own lunches.

TAILORED FROCK

The tailored frock of this season is not severe, but has graceful lines such as this one. The surplus front reveals a tiny front of lace, but that is the only trimming. The circular ruffles at the sleeves and caught up in the front make it quite unnecessary. A very fine, supple charm is the material.

degree that experts predict he again has shown the way for better pictures in the future.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

WEDDING

From the ancient Egyptians we get our custom of the wedding ring and the bridegroom's promise (usually deceitful): "With all my worldly goods I thee endow." So says Howard Carter, who dug King Tut out of the sand and oblivion.

The wedding ring of modern times is a survival of the seal to the bridegroom's treasure chests. This seal was handed to the bride to signify 50-50 ownership.

We still use the ring. But the struggle to make a living is so intense that few bridegrooms have any treasure chests. These come later—very occasionally.

ITALIA

Italy is as rich now as she was before the war, reports a big New York bank. Hard work has replaced her war losses of 2000 millions of dollars worth of property. Counting her provinces acquired as a result of the war settlement, she's richer than in 1914.

This looks good on paper. But be prepared to run if you spring it on a resident of Italy who's paying high taxes and war-inflated prices. A war is a loss, no matter whether a country wins or loses. War is a hemorrhage of national vitality and national wealth.

ORIENT

To the orient Americans have sold 700 million dollars worth of exports in the 12 months ending June 30.

In the year before the war, the figure was only 200 million.

Allowing for inflated prices, the physical volume of trade has almost doubled.

That's our big foreign-trade future—out toward the sunset. Europe is crumbling to join the lost civilization of Egypt, India, Arabia and Babylonia.

MOVIES

In making movies, 25 cents out of each $1 goes to actors, says a writer in the Wall Street Journal. He finds, by analyzing movie makers' books, that 10 cents is spent for scenarios and stories for every 25 cents paid to actors.

Either the actors' salaries are magnified tremendously by the press agents, or writing for the pictures is more profitable than is generally known in the writing business.

Most magazines of big circulation are becoming little more than production factories for the screen.

MARS

Mars this summer will be closer to the earth than for nearly a century. At that, though, it'll be 31 million miles away. But astronomers are going to make a supreme attempt to find out if people live on Mars and, if so, to communicate with them. A few months will bring this attempt to the front pages of newspapers.

Mars may not be inhabited, but surely the earth is not the only heavenly body that supports intelligent life. To believe otherwise requires colossal egotism. Many have it in sufficient quantity.

ROADS

Better roads and more of them are constantly being made available to the motor tourist. Fourteen thousand miles of highway, built with federal aid (Uncle Sam's financial help), are now under construction, to cost 262 million dollars.

More than twice that much has been appropriated since the federal aid road act became law in 1916.

It would be wiser to build for lastingness rather than mileage. A considerable part of our roads wear out so fast, it's like pouring public money down the sewer.

READING

Heaven help us, several colleges have installed courses teaching book agents how to ply their trade. Fortunately, they specialize at selling from behind the counter in stores.

And that job requires education. More so steadily, say speakers at a convention of book dealers. They find people are "thinking more," increasingly buying volumes on serious subjects. And movies and radio have stimulated book sales instead of curtailing them as many once expected.

VALUES

A coal operator kicks because a penny, which will buy only one stick of gum, will purchase an average of 216 cubic inches of coal containing 147,000 British Thermal Units of heat.

But that's nothing to the heat generated by a used stick of gum when we step or sit on it. This heat, generated in anger, will, no doubt, be put to work as soon as they learn how to conserve the energy wasted when a dog wags its tail.

CANADA

In a year we have sold Canada 601 million dollars worth of goods and bought from her 431 millions.

The balance in our favor isn't as important as the fact that trade between the two countries is increasing steadily. Twelve per cent a year is the gain. And Canada is one of the very few countries where we are sure of getting our money.

PROSPEROUS

In the whole world are about 18,200,000 autos. And all except three millions of these are here in the United States. Our country has nine times as many autos as all Europe combined.

America is the real "land of milk and honey." Despite this, there is much discontent—fortunately so, for discontent indicates a desire for better conditions and willingness to toil to create them.

In Tiro, O., a man has received a letter mailed 63 years ago, but bills never act that way.

JAPANESE FRIENDLINESS

Friends of Japan, disturbed by the anti-American agitation in that country, will welcome the friendly statement of certain Japanese organizations in New York. They while regretting the methods adopted by Congress in terminating the gentlemen's agreement characterizing the recent untidy manifestations in Japan as "unworthy actions setting violence against violence," while we criticize anti-Japanese agitators, we are actually following their narrow example. These Japanese call attention to the fact that "the treatment daily accorded to Japanese in the United States by Americans is as cordial and friendly as it has been in the past," and they add that their experience has shown them "that there are many Americans who love justice and righteousness and who are sincerely solicitous for future good relations between our two countries." Such an offset to the jingoists in Japan, and, incidentally, such a fair presentation of America's true attitude, are timely now that the new Japanese Ministry has been formed.

Although the new Premier, Viscount Kato, is no especial friend of the United States, the fact that Baron Shidehara, formerly Ambassador in Washington, is to head the Foreign Office means that Americans will have a friend in court who thoroughly understands their point of view, and who knows that they have no dislike for the Japanese, nor wish them harm. There is further good news in the report that Viscount Ishii is to take the place of Ambassador Hanabara, whose resignation was confirmed some time ago. This makes it plain that the Japanese Government is determined to do all in its power to strengthen the ties between the two countries. Viscount Ishii is one of Japan's ablest diplomats, who knows well the problems dividing the two countries. He came to America on a special mission in 1917, and at the time concluded with Secretary Lansing the so-called Lansing-Ishii agreement setting forth Japan's special interests in China. This understanding was abrogated as a result of negotiations at the Washington conference.

When Ambassador Hanabara returns to his country he will be able to confirm the truth of the statement made by the Japanese organizations in New York about the essential friendliness of the American people for Japan, and the general regret that Congress saw fit to choose such rude means of obtaining an object which Japan was more than ready to agree to diplomatically. He will be able to tell them the people of the United States, East and West, are earnestly desirous of doing all in their power to work in harmony with the people of Japan.—New York Times.

GRAVES ON TOP OF GRAVES

Ethnologists have been surprised time and again in the last quarter of a century by the revelations that the stonegraves have furnished of a prehistoric American people. Now it is discovered that a still more ancient race is buried beneath the one that had disappeared before white men came to America.

The discovery came purely as an accident. Dr. John Walter Fewkes, chief of the bureau of American Ethnology of the Smithsonian Institution, was excavating a stone grave cemetery on Wheeler's island, off the coast of Florida. The picks of his diggers struck through the graves of the prehistoric race remnants of life so old that he has not attempted to assign it to a historical period. It was a fortunate accident for science that the two graveyards, centuries apart in time, were located one on top of the other.

The earlier burials, Dr. Fewkes has reported, are typical of early periods in human development. Just how ancient he believes those graves to be will probably not become known until he returns to his office in Washington and has time to work up his data systematically. The theory, by the way, is that America was peopled from Asia has long been troubling. Possibly it is now about to be disproved.—Outlook.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

The next night when Johnny Jump Up, the garden fairy, awakened the Twins and the "three of them had climbed down the rose vine into the magic garden, the little fairy skipped over to a patch of yellow flowers and stopped.

"Do you know what these are?" he asked.
"Sort of," said Nancy. "I've seen something like them before."
"There are English primroses," said Johnny Jump Up. "In America primroses are pink and purple, but in England they are yellow, and come out early in the spring."

"Why don't you let them see for themselves?" said a silvery voice.
And the Twins beheld a lovely little fairy standing in the primrose patch. The Fairy Queen said you had telephoned for three tickets to England, said the fairy, "so I could come. But you are talking and talking as though you never would get through."

"Now you're both talking, said still another voice. "This is the latest place I ever saw. Now that you have your tickets and everything is settled, why don't we start?"
And there stood the timorous.

"We're ever so much obliged for the tickets," said Nancy to the primrose fairy. "And I'm sure Johnny didn't mean to be cross."
"Of course I didn't," laughed Johnny merrily. "I was only fooling. Please excuse me."
"Oh, do come on," begged the timorous. "It's a long way to England and back and the moon looks wet. I'm quite sure it will rain."

So away they went on the timorous's back.
As they flew toward the east they met the sun.
"Hello," he called down. "Have a good time."

And bye and bye they came to England.
"Down there is London Town," said Johnny Jump Up, pointing to a city so big the Twins could not see the end of it.

"That's famous for lots of things," London Bridge that's always falling down, and the place Dick Whittington came to before he got his cat and became lord mayor, and the place the little boy came to get himself a wife because the rats and the mice did lead him such a life, and the place Puss in Boots came to, and everything.

"And it's the place the king lives," added Johnny Jump Up. "And the queen, too, and the Prince of Wales, and a lot of other important people."

"But where are the primroses?" asked Nancy. "I don't see one."
"Of course, not," said Johnny Jump Up. "They're out in the country. Fly on, timorous."

Johnny Jump Up was right. The world was yellow with primroses out in the country. And a lovely sight they were.
"Is that all there is in England—London Tower and primroses?" asked Nick.

"Goodness, no!" said Johnny Jump Up. "But if we stayed to see one hundredth part of it all we wouldn't get home until the week after next. Home, timorous, if you please."

NEVER AN END TO TROUBLES

By Albert Apple

The butcher who keeps his hand on the scales and weighs it in with the steak may be known to many of you. And, no doubt, you comment about the crookedness and petty cheating of this day and age when things are going to the bow-wows.

Things, by the way, are always going to the bow-wows—in all generations, all centuries.

More than 400 years ago a famous French preacher named Oliver Maillard rose up in his pulpit and pronounced a curse on "those who, when they weigh, press down the scales with their finger."

Preacher Maillard took a rap at "tavernkeepers who sophisticate and mingle wines." . . . And after four centuries most bootleggers are doing the same thing—adulterating liquor.

Maillard denounced "butchers who blow up their meat, and who mix hog's lard with the fat of their meat." . . . The popular trick in 1924 is to feed the fowl a lot of corn just before killing it, or pour gravel in its gullet to make it weigh heavier.

Maillard championed the downtrodden poor by boldly telling his rich congregation: "If you ladies and gentlemen who are batten on your pleasures and wear scarlet clothes, I believe if you were closely put in a good wine-press we should see the blood of the poor gush out."

The more a man studies the histories of long-departed generations, the more impressed he is that people have the same basic troubles no matter in what century they live.

Troubles have no end. They seem to be perpetual. True, there is a never-ending fight against these chronic troubles. But the troubles persist despite no end of denunciation and indignation.

Are we really getting anywhere, through the ages? Or are we just kidding ourselves?

Nature doesn't want us to have things easy. Occasionally it may seem that life is a jail, troubles part of a sentence we are serving for sins of a previous existence. The real answer, of course, is that troubles and obstacles are sent to develop and bring out the best that's in us.

Preacher Maillard was simply wasting his breath.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT, CARE THE SECRET DRAWER

My, it seems good to get home again. I wonder if you have missed me, dear little Marquise? I was so glad to get back and find that mother Prescott had not found your secret drawer, that is so full of my confidences now instead of yours.

The last day of my stay in New York was rather unhappy. Alice acted like a petulant child. It seems that when I elected to stay at home and not go with the family to the opera on the evening before my departure, Karl was much disappointed. He seemed to think that as it was our last evening in New York I should not stay away from his party, which I found out afterward he had planned on a magnificent scale, beginning with a box at the Metropolitan Opera House, and ending with a gorgeous supper and dancing at the Little Club.

"He acted as though you were the guest of honor, Les," Alice said. "Well, wasn't she?" asked mother quietly, who was standing by.

Cannot understand you, Alice, since you returned from England and you cannot always be the center of attraction. I have felt often since we have been staying here in New York that had I been Karl I would have boxed your ears."

Alice looked at mother disgustedly and frowned out of the room. "I am afraid we left Alice too long in England alone, Leslie. Karl has evidently spoiled her. She expects him to be at her beck and call every minute."

"It is a strange thing that while I have been perfectly innocent in this matter those ill-fated gems have made me unhappy ever since my marriage, and now because I foolishly told Karl I would keep them I can't even tell Jack about them. As Ruth says, Jack might forgive me the pearls because he would realize that at first I did not know they were real, but he would never forgive me for letting Karl pay $15,000 to keep the string intact."

As it is, I have just got to sit tight and hold for the best. (Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

ORATORY TO PLAY TELLING PART IN DEM CONVENTION

BY HARRY B. HUNT

NEA Service Writer

Washington, June 18—How will the Democratic convention react to eloquence?

That is the question friends of two of the dark horse possibilities are asking. For on the oratory of one and the same speaker depend to a very great extent the fortunes in the convention of the two presidential entries from the Buckeye state.

James M. Cox, Democratic nominee in 1920, will have behind him a delegation from Ohio instructed to fight for his nomination—for a second chance at the presidency.

None of these delegates believes Cox stands any reasonable chance of nomination. They agree, "Doesn't make any sense."

The delegates of Bryan and his Ohio supporters, however, are the only Democrats east with alive lives. And yet, behind this skepticism, doubt as to his attitude on the majority of questions that might arise.

As chairman of the House committee that wrote the federal reserve act, and as secretary of treasury, they have had ample opportunity to dissect, analyze and classify him. And he is down in their books as "a disaster."

As a "safe and sound" candidate, one that would at rock the boat or upset any apple-carts, the conservatives are carefully restraining from throwing any rocks at Glass.

This would be due not so much perhaps to the belief that he would lean heavily in their direction, but to the fact that they already know where he stands. They would be in no doubt as to his attitude on the majority of questions that might arise.

I have found that she is put out if Karl is even faintly devoted to me.

Last night at the opera she wore a new string of pearls. Karl put them on her just before we left. It was a magnificent gift and any other girl would have been wild with delight, but what do you think she said?

"She turned from the mirror where she had been looking at them around her throat and exclaimed, with a disappointed frown. 'I don't think they are as pretty as Leslie's.'"

"What do you mean?" I asked. "You know Leslie's necklace is only a string of imitation beads. You gave it to her yourself."

"She didn't deign to answer but took Karl's arm and preceded us to the motor."

Oh, little Marquise, I wish I hadn't promised Karl not to tell. If I had not I would then and there have told mother the whole story.

I am going to put those pearls in the little secret drawer here and keep them out of my sight for a long time.

It is a strange thing that while I have been perfectly innocent in this matter those ill-fated gems have made me unhappy ever since my marriage, and now because I foolishly told Karl I would keep them I can't even tell Jack about them. himself, and that Baker instead of Cox will prove to be Ohio's real figure in the contest.

The most rapidly inflating boom of the immediate pre-convention days, however, is that for Senator Charles Glass of Virginia. Glass combines certain elements of strength, politically, that put him well up in the last of likely "compromise" candidates.

As a member of the Wilson cabinet and a champion of Wilson policies he would hold the favor of a large part of the former president's followers in the convention. He would be acceptable to the moderately progressive or mildly conservative groups in the party.

On the other hand, Glass would be wholly acceptable to "big business" and "the interests."

This would be due not so much perhaps to the belief that he would lean heavily in their direction, but to the fact that they already know where he stands. They would be in no doubt as to his attitude on the majority of questions that might arise.

KELLEY AGAIN SMACKS HOMER

Helps Giants Defeat St. Louis.
Five to Three

Chicago, June 18.—George Kelley, the elongated first sacker of the New York Giants, who knocked three home runs in one game Sunday, crashed another homer yesterday. New York beat St. Louis, 5 to 3, Bentley having the best of Sutherland in box work.

Brooklyn beat Cincinnati again, 5 to 4. Four errors contributed to the Cincinnati defeat. Jake Daubert, out of the game since May 28 when he was hit on the head, reported to the Reds and practiced, but did not play.

Pittsburgh and Boston split a double header, the Pirates taking the first, 5 to 2, and Boston the second, 1 to 0. Chicago beat Philadelphia, 4 to 3.

In the American Babe Ruth smacked out his sixteenth home run in the New York Yankees-Cleveland game, New York winning 7 to 5. Ruth also scored the winning run, coming from second while Fawcett was throwing out Papp.

Detroit made it three straight from Boston, 7 to 4. Washington beat Chicago, 13 to 6.

Billy Evans Says

In no sport do technicalities play so important a part as in baseball. Often some slight misinterpretation of the part of a player or umpire can change the entire complexion of a ball game.

I have specific reference to the tipping of the bat by the catcher, while the batsman is in the act of striking at the ball.

Sounds rather trivial, yet in a game between Detroit and Washington, it resulted in six runs crossing the plate after the side had apparently been retired. It was the deciding factor in a 9 to 7 game, won by Washington.

Every spring for years I have written a baseball problem involving unusual plays, to brush up the memory and enthusiasm of the fans.

On several occasions I have resorted to the tipping of the bat by the catcher as one of my plays, usually stating the situation much like this:

"The first batsman reaches first base, although he is apparently retired on a foul fly by the outfield."

Every year after the answer is published, in which I have made use of the above play, I usually receive scores of letters, ridiculing the idea that such a play could possibly happen.

That most anything can happen in baseball was proved in the Detroit game. Beckspaugh grounded to infield, and was apparently retired at first for the third out. The umpire ruled the Detroit catcher had tipped his bat and granted him first base. Before the inning was over Washington made six runs.

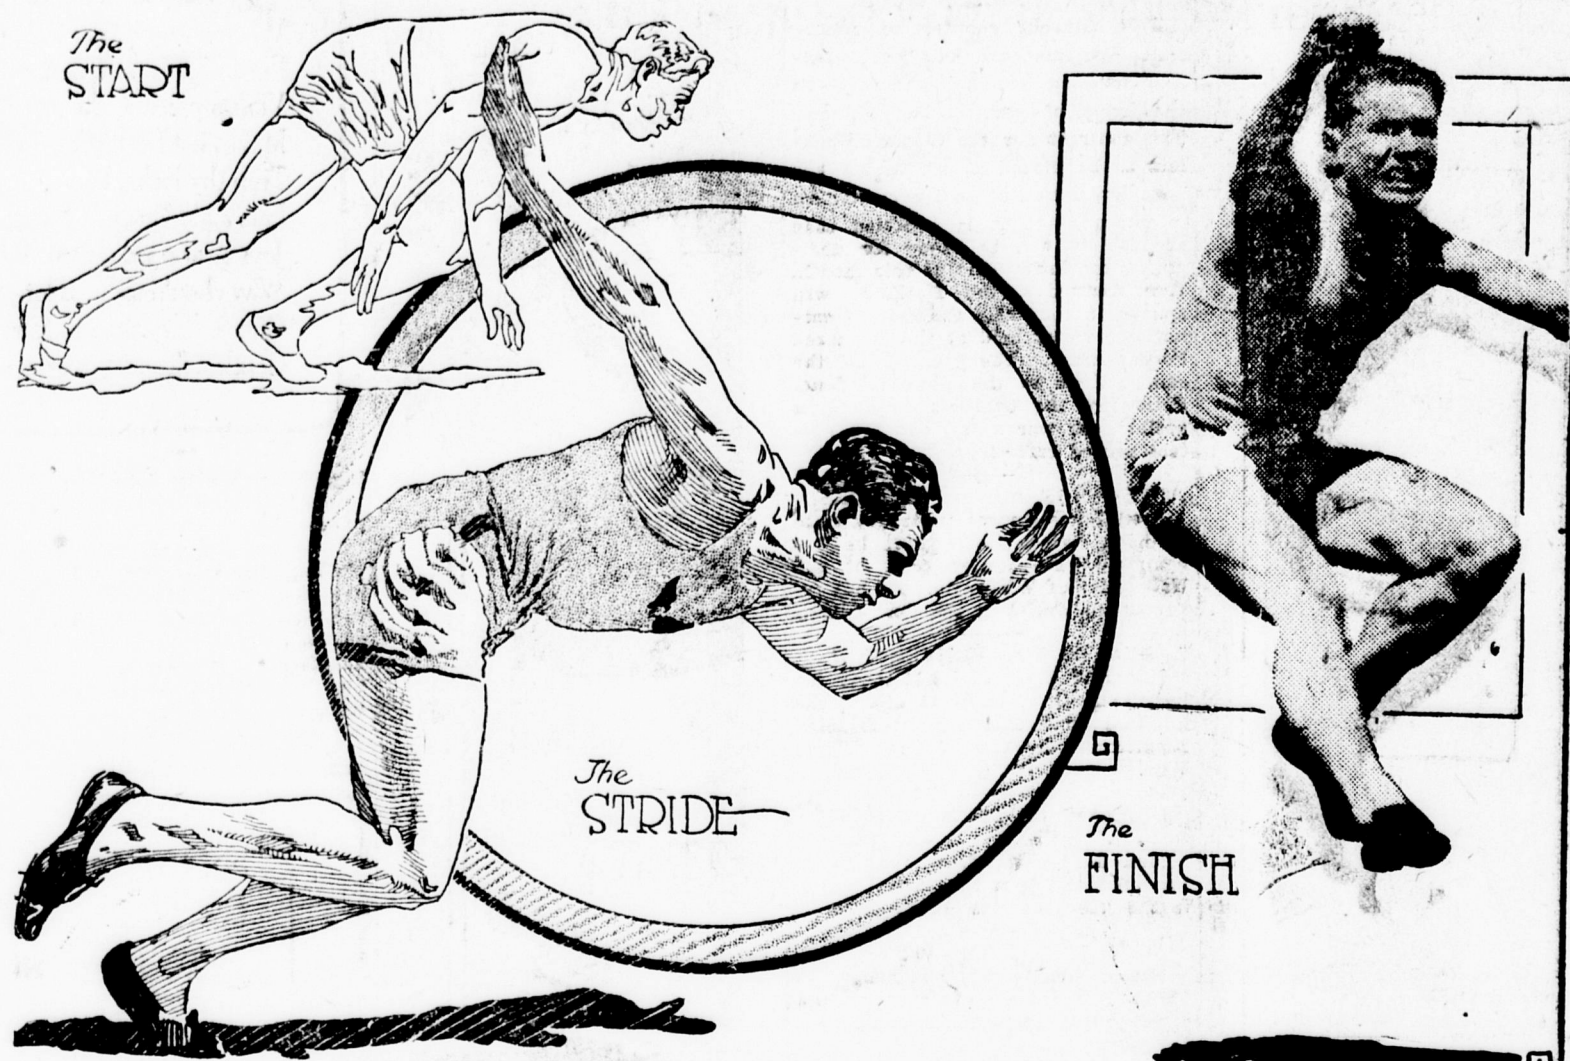

The Detroit happening goes to show how important each and every ruling of the umpire actually is.

This fact has come under my own observation a half dozen times already this year.

In one game with two out and three balls and two strikes on the batsman, the next pitch was over the plate, just at or below the knee.

The umpire believed it to be too low for a strike, and so ruled, the batsman going to first on a protest was made. It was a play in which the umpire was in trouble so matter how he ruled, and the team in the

PADDOCK'S GENIUS AS ANALYZED BY THE CAMERA

The three most important physical factors which make for success in the sprints are: (1) the start, (2) the stride and (3) the finish.

In the above layout the camera shows how Charley Paddock, "Fastest Human," executes these maneuvers.

No sprinter leaps away from the line faster than the gifted Californian, no sprinter has a longer or more perfectly timed stride, and none a finish more peculiarly his own. Little wonder, then, that he has made track history that promises to endure for years.

SIEGE GUNNERS IN GOLF FAIL TO WIN

Rogers and Guilford, Longest Swatters in Recent Open
Tourney, Finished Strokes Behind

By JOE WILLIAMS

The siege gunner in golf is picturesque rather than powerful, and in recent years has been conspicuous among the successful. The main honors have been going to the players who sacrificed length for accuracy, and romance for routine.

Max Marston is this type of player. There are many amateurs who hit longer balls off the tee, but few who are straighter through the green. This kind of golf brought Marston the amateur championship last summer.

Corril Walker, recent winner of the open, is much the same type of golfer. Walker hits a long ball, but he hardly ranks with the siege gunners. His chief interest is centered in keeping the ball in the middle of the fairway.

At Oakland Hills the Jersey professional probably played fewer shots from rough and traps than any other player. This, and his ability to control the ball in a quivering gale, accounted for his triumph.

field accepted it as a freak against them. Then a batting rally ensued, and before the side was retired seven runs crossed the plate. Those seven runs decided the ball game. The umpire was the cause, said the team that lost.

In two other games I have seen a close decision at first with two out, and no one on, be given in favor of the batter. Ruling the batter out would have retired the side. In each case five runs were made after the close decision was given in favor of the team at bat.

During the course of a season, scores of games hinge on some certain ruling of the umpire.

Another Soldier Battler Retires From Ring Side

By NEA Service

Cumberland, Md., June 18.—Another of Uncle Sam's fighting men in the World War who went in for boxing after the armistice has joined Bob Martin, A. E. F. champion, and Captain Bob Roper in retirement. He's Fay Keiser, who fought Martin de Paris, lost the decision and then for the A. E. F. title in the Cirque started his conqueror on the downward path by decisively beating him in Baltimore, September, 1922. Keiser went to the top of the ranks of the soldier boxers in France. He was champion of the 7th division and many thought he should have had the decision over Martin when they fought for the army title.

After the war Keiser met with fair success in the ring. He climaxed his rise up the pugilistic ladder by defeating Martin and from that point on went back.

Now he's out for good and none other than Harry Greb, middleweight champion, who lured the first boxing glove on Fay's youthful mittens, turned the trick.

Greb and Keiser fought an even dozen times in the last several years. Some weeks ago Greb stopped Keiser in the twelfth round of a fifteen round bout in Baltimore.

Then Jimmy Slattery knocked him out in three rounds at Buffalo. Keiser, unlike many other boxers, has stered up some of the world's goods. With his manager, he is interested in an amusement park and is part owner of a hotel.

The investment in electric light and power companies represents considerably more than one per cent of the national wealth.

Paddock's tumultuous finishing style, wherein he literally throws his body at the tape, is frowned upon by critics. They say it is unorthodox and a hindrance to maximum speed.

All of which may be quite true, but in Paddock's case it has seemed to work out pretty well. Maybe it is that subtle distinguishing gesture which singles out the genius.

Incidentally, Paddock has reconsidered a previously arranged program and is now getting ready for participation in the Olympiad.

GLENCOE-LIVONA

Lightning struck and burned a barn on the John Grenz farm last Wednesday evening, which contained thirteen head of cows, four small calves, four head of horses and seven sets of work harness, also a quantity of hay and other things.

Neighbors rushed to the scene as soon as possible but the fire had gained such a start that nothing could be saved. Mr. Grenz entered the barn hoping to save some of the animals, he succeeded in cutting the ropes on two of the cows but the flames and smoke were so thick he was unable to get them out and narrowly escaped himself. The horses and two sets of harness belonged to a brother of Mr. Grenz, who happened to be there that night. The contents of the barn was not covered by insurance and was a total loss, though the barn is said to have been insured for a small amount. This place was formerly owned by Wesley Baker whom Mr. Grenz bought out a few years ago. Several of the horses are known to have been struck and killed instantly by the bolt.

SUFFERS HEMORRHAGE
An hemorrhage of the lungs which seized him while he was in his garden Monday gathering vegetables, caused the almost instant death of M. N. Tripp, aged 65, pioneer citizen of Center and Oliver county. Mr. Tripp had been a sufferer from tuberculosis for many years, but of late had been in fair condition. Monday however, the work of stooping to gather vegetables brought on the hemorrhage. He was able to make his way from the garden to the back porch of his home and died.

Deceased had been one of the first settlers in Oliver county and for many years was engaged in the sale of land. He was respected by a great circle of friends who extend their sympathies to the widow, a daughter, Mrs. Wm. Kiebert, and the son, Harold Tripp, who survives. Harold Tripp, formerly a resident of Mandan now lives in Spokane and funeral arrangements have been delayed pending receipt of word from him. The body, however, will be taken to Farihot, Minn., his previous home, for interment, relatives said.

HOMES BUILT FROM STOCK PLANS CAN HAVE INDIVIDUALITY AND STYLE

Design 1944

M. L. KEITH

THE housing shortage which has been the after result of the let-up in building activities during the war period has given rise to the solution of this problem in a quick and systematic way. Quantity production of designs for small homes has been accepted as the way best to meet this great need for housing facilities throughout the country.

Because of this organized effort it is now possible for the man of moderate means to secure for a nominal sum, complete plans, specifications and details of houses which are quite as excellent in plan outline and detail of design as could be secured through the more costly method of engaging a high-priced architect. While the services of the architect can be worked out and the ease with which they are ready by the home builder himself recommends them as a great saving in the building of the home.

The need of this plan service to go with stock plans and house plans has been an obvious outgrowth of the idea that many of the houses that were being built to meet the housing shortage were not in good taste. A real need existed for a service such as the American Home Plan Bureau now renders to anyone requesting it. This Home Plan Bureau is an organization having at its disposal tested plans of leading architects of the country arranged for your requirements by M. L. Keith.

The complete plans, blueprints and specifications of the home shown here can be secured at a very nominal cost from the American Home Plan Bureau together with all needed instructions on building contracts and purchase of materials.

In the home pictured here, rough cast stucco panels combine with a heavy wood cornice and brick foundation in a very pleasing fashion. Although on perfectly straight lines, it is decidedly out of the ordinary in appearance. The little open terrace at the front with gay flowers along the ledge, and the well designed, hooded entrance, place it well within the line of artistic homes. The color note is amply supplied by the rich toned brick work of foundation.

The Bureau is an organization having at its disposal the tested plans of leading architects of the country, now arranged for your requirements by M. L. Keith, Architectural Supervisor of the Bureau and a recognized authority on home planning. It is practically a nonprofit-making public service having as its purpose the furthering of the "Own Your Own Home" movement in the United States.

Mr. M. L. Keith will answer questions and give advice free of cost on all subjects pertaining to planning, building and construction of homes for the readers of this paper. By reason of his forty years' experience as an Editor, Designer and Builder, Mr. Keith is ranked as the highest authority on home planning and construction.

All inquiries should be addressed to American Home Plan Bureau, 220 S. State St., Chicago, Ill.

KELLEY AGAIN
SMACKS HOMER

Helps Giants Defeat St. Louis
Five to Three

Chicago, June 18.—George Kelley, the elongated first sacker of the New York Giants, who knocked three home runs in one game Sunday, crashed another homer yesterday. New York beat St. Louis 5 to 3, Bentley having the best of Southern in box work.

Brooklyn beat Cincinnati again, 9 to 1. Four errors contributed to the Cincinnati defeat. Jake Dugan, hit out of the game, since May 28, when a 15 on the head report led to the Reds and practiced, but did not play.

Pittsburgh and Boston split a double header. The Pirates taking the first, 2 to 0, and Boston the second, 1 to 0. Chicago beat Philadelphia 6 to 0.

In the American Babe Ruth smacked out his sixteenth home run in the New York Yankees' Cleveland game, New York winning 7 to 5. Ruth also scored the winning run coming from second while Fawcett was throwing out Pipp.

Detroit made it three straight from Boston, 7 to 1. Washington beat Chicago, 13 to 6.

Billy Evans Says

In no sport do technicalities play as important a part as in baseball. Often a slight misrule on the part of a player or umpire can change the entire complexion of a ball game.

I have specific reference to the tipping of the bat by the catcher, while the batsman is in the act of striking at the ball.

Sounds rather trivial, yet in a game between Detroit and Washington, it resulted in six runs crossing the plate after the side had apparently been retired. It was the deciding factor in a 9 to 7 game, won by Washington.

Every spring for years I have written a baseball problem involving unusual plays, to brush up the memory and enthusiasm of the fans.

On several occasions I have resorted to the tipping of the bat by the catcher as one of my plays, usually stating the situation much like this:

"The first batsman reaches first base, although he is apparently retired on a foul fly by the outfield."

Every year after the answer is published, in which I have made use of the above play, I usually receive scores of letters ridiculing the idea that such a play could possibly happen.

That most anything can happen in baseball was proved in the Detroit game. Peckispaugh, grounded to infield, was apparently retired at first for the third out. The umpire ruled the Detroit catcher had tipped his bat and granted him first base. Before the inning was over Washington made six runs.

The Detroit happening goes to show how important each and every ruling of the umpire actually is.

This fact has come under my own observation a half dozen times already this year.

In one game with two out and three balls and two strikes on the batsman, the next pitch was over the plate, fast at or below the knee.

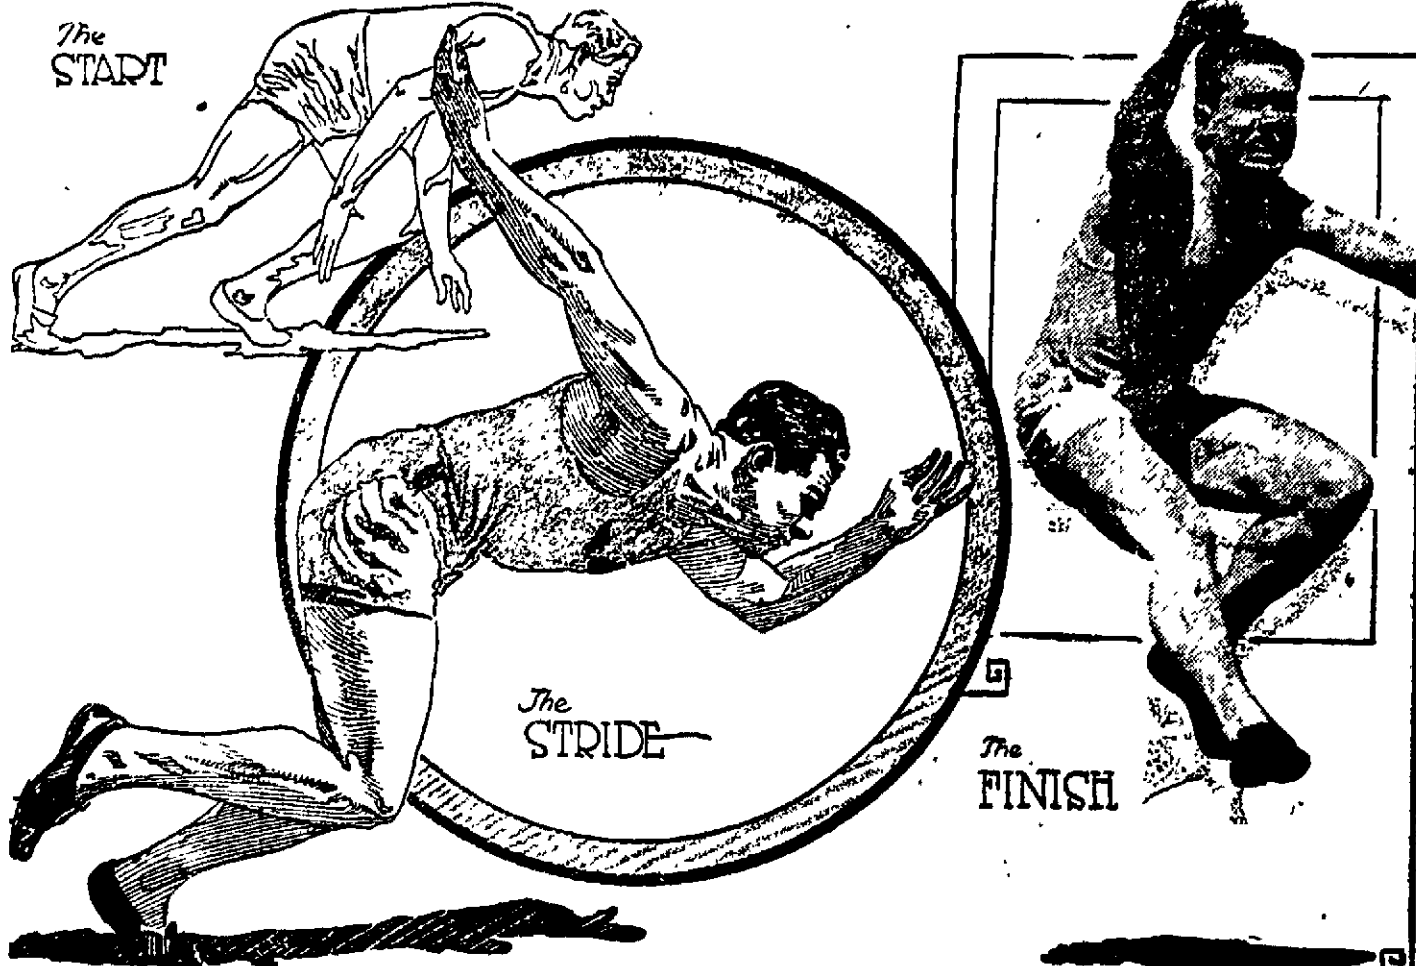

The umpire believed it to be too low for a strike, and so ruled the batsman going to first on four balls.

At the time not even a protest was made. It was only when the umpire was in the middle of the next play that the protest was made.

He ruled the batsman in the box.

PADDOCK'S GENIUS AS ANALYZED BY THE CAMERA

The three most important physical factors which make for success in the sprint are (1) the start, (2) the stride, and (3) the finish.

In the above layout the camera shows how Charles Paddock, "Fastest Human," executes these maneuvers.

No sprinter leaps away from the line faster than the gifted Californian, no sprinter has a longer or more perfectly timed stride, and none a finish more peculiarly his own. Little wonder, then, that he has made track history that promises to endure for years.

SIEGE GUNNERS IN GOLF FAIL TO WIN

Rogers and Guilford, Longest Swatters in Recent Open
Tourney, Finished Strokes Behind

BY JOE WILLIAMS

The siege gunner in golf is picturesque rather than powerful, and in recent years has been conspicuous among the successful. The main honors have been going to the player who sacrificed length for accuracy, and romance for routine.

Max Marston is this type of player. There are many amateurs who hit longer balls off the tee, but few who are straighter through the green. This kind of golf brought Marston the amateur championship last summer.

Cyril Walker, recent winner of the open, is much the same type of golfer. Walker hits a long ball, but he hardly ranks with the siege gunners. His chief interest is centered in keeping the ball in the middle of the fairway.

At Oakland Hills the Jersey professional probably played fewer shots from rough and traps than any other player. This, and his ability to control the ball in a quattering gale, accounted for his triumph.

A long ball that you can't control is about as useful as an ice pick in the tropics. The longest hitter in this year's open was young Johnny Rogers of Dayton. Rogers hit a tee shot every bit as far as Bob Macdonald's, but it was not always straight, and that's one reason Rogers finished with 314, exactly 17 strokes behind the leader.

Ranking next to Rogers in production was Jesse Guilford, the Boston amateur, and Jesse was even further back with 317.

Chick Evans has the right idea on tee shots, which is this: Go after distance only when it is necessary. The siege gunner, on the other hand, goes after it all the time.

On a course of moderate length, Evans simply shortens his back swing. On long courses, such as Flore-moor was last year, he lengthens it. This sounds easy, and is, if you have mastered timing, a delicate operation, which consists in getting the wrists, arm and body into the "hit" at the right second.

Another Soldier
Battler Retires
From Ring Side

By NEA Service

Cum gratia, Mr. Junius. Another of Uncle Sam's fighting men in the World War who went in for boxing after the armistice was Joe Bob Martin, A. E. F. champion, and Captain Bob Roper in retirement.

He's Joe Kaiser, who fought Martin de Paris, lost the decision and then for the A. E. F. title in the C ring.

AMERICA'S ALL-STAR DIVING SQUAD

started his conqueror on the downward path by decisively beating him in Baltimore, September, 1922.

Kaiser went to the top of the ranks of the soldier boxers in France. He was champion of the 20th division and many thought he should have had the decision over Martin when they fought for the army title.

After the war Kaiser met with fair success in the ring. He climbed his way up the pugilistic ladder by defeating Martin and from that point on went back.

Now he's out for good and none other than Harry Greb, middle weight champion, who faced the first boxing glove on Fay's youthful mittens, turned the trick.

Greb and Kaiser fought an even dozen times in the last several years. Some weeks ago Greb stopped Kaiser in the twelfth round of a fifteen round bout in Baltimore. Then Jimmy Slattery knocked him out in this round at Buffalo.

Kaiser, and like many other boxers, he's turned up some of the world's good ones. With his manager, he is interested in an amusement park and is part owner of a hotel.

The investment in electric light and power companies represents considerably more than one per cent of the national wealth.

Paddock's tumultuous finishing style, wherein he literally throws his body at the tape, is frowned upon by critics. They say it is unorthodox and a hindrance to maximum speed.

All of which may be quite true, but in Paddock's case it has seemed to work out pretty well. Maybe it is that subtle distinguishing gesture which singles out the genius.

Incidentally Paddock has reconsidered a previously arranged program and is now getting ready for participation in the Olympiad.

GLENCOE-LIVONA

Lightning struck and burned a barn on the John Grenz farm last Wednesday evening, which contained thirteen head of cows, four small calves, four head of horses and seven sets of work harness, also a quantity of hay and other things.

Neighbors rushed to the scene as soon as possible but the fire had gained such a start that nothing could be saved. Mr. Grenz entered the barn hoping to save some of the animals, he succeeded in cutting the ropes on two of the cows but the flames and smoke were so thick he was unable to get them out and narrowly escaped himself. The horses and two sets of harness belonged to a brother of Mr. Grenz, who happened to be there that night. The contents of the barn was not covered by insurance and was a total loss, though the barn is said to have been insured for a small amount. This place was formerly owned by Wesley Baker whom Mr. Grenz bought out a few years ago. Several of the horses are known to have been struck and killed instantly by the bolt.

FIFTY YEARS OF SUCCESSFUL SERVICE TO THE COMMUNITY

Where shall we go this evening?

Frequently you decide to spend the evening in town with some friend. The first part is easy. Dinner at a pleasant restaurant. But afterwards . . . What will you do to carry on this business of having a good time?

Easy! Two cents. An evening paper. A glance at the advertisements. Suggestion—agreement, and you're off!

You didn't go around to the different theatres, to be driven to an unsatisfactory choice by fatigue and time. If it's worth while to consult the advertisements about amusements, how much more worth while must it be when it comes to the spending of the household money.

Read the advertisements. They place before you the full choice of the trustworthy goods in the market. They describe advantages, and give you full information before you have to stir out of your chair. Pursue for every article you buy the method you use when it comes to amusements.

The way to be sure of what you buy is to buy advertised goods.

M'KENZIE TAX CASE EVIDENCE IS PRESENTED

State Opens its Presentation Before County Judge in Bismarck Today

WAS REGISTERED HERE

Also Testified in Court That Residence Was Here, Says Witness

Witnesses were placed on the stand for the state, in its effort to collect an inheritance tax from the estate of the late Alexander McKenzie, former Northwest political leader, to testify that he had voted in Bismarck, in the resumption of the hearing before County Judge L. C. Davies today.

W. A. Falconer, city assessor, testified that McKenzie personally registered for the 1920 primary election as a resident of Bismarck, although he was spending most of his time in St. Paul. M. J. O'Connor testified that at several elections some years previous Mr. McKenzie voted in Bismarck and said this city was his legal residence, although he was not here much of the time.

The state also introduced a deposition of Charles E. McNamara, court reporter, to the effect that on June 14, 1922, eight days before his death, Mr. McKenzie, testifying in the case of Green vs. Tuttle in federal court, St. Paul, before Judge Booth, said his residence was in Bismarck and had been since 1921.

The state's witnesses followed the resting of the case in behalf of the estate, T. H. Poole of this city being the last witness called by Alfred Zuger and H. C. Flannery, attorneys for George P. Flannery, administrator, who maintains Mr. McKenzie's residence was in St. Paul.

Mr. Poole testified that he had assisted Mr. McKenzie in making out his federal income tax return, it being paid to the St. Paul office, and that on October 6, 1921, at a meeting of the Bismarck Water Supply Company in St. Paul, Mr. McKenzie said he had disposed of his interests and would not return to Bismarck.

Wilson Followers Want Definite League Plank

By Harry R. Hunt
NEA Service Writer

Washington, June 18.—The shade of Woodrow Wilson will be invoked at the New York Democratic convention by a fighting group of his loyal followers in an effort to carry forward the cause closest to Wilson's heart, by incorporating in the party platform a clear-cut and definite plank endorsing American participation in the League of Nations.

Four of Wilson's old cabinet members, all of them listed as possible presidential selections, will join in the fight to commit the party on the League issue. They are:

Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war.
Carter Glass, who served as head of the treasury after McAdoo's resignation.

David F. Houston, secretary of agriculture and later of treasury under Wilson.

Josephus Daniels, secretary of navy through the entire eight years of Wilson's regime.

Aiding these ex-cabinet officials in one drive to resurrect the cause of their dead chief, not only because they believe in the cause but also because they believe it can be used better than any other issue to differentiate Democrats from Republicans and stir the nation's dormant idealism.

Wilson's last message to the country, his brief Armistice Day speech last November 11, will be made the keynote for the occasion.

Feeble, broken, Wilson leaned heavily on his cane as he addressed the crowd that made pilgrimage to his home on that anniversary of the end of the war. But as he spoke, something of his old fighting spirit came back to him and as he closed, his voice rose in a challenge to those "puny wills," who interpreted his "puny wills," against a cause which he said, "as certainly as there is a God in heaven will prevail."

With this last message from their old commander as the battle cry, champions of the League in the convention believe the crusading spirit of the delegates may be roused to a higher pitch than by any other issue.

These leaders of the League cause deny that it can be used in any way to the party's disadvantage in the campaign.

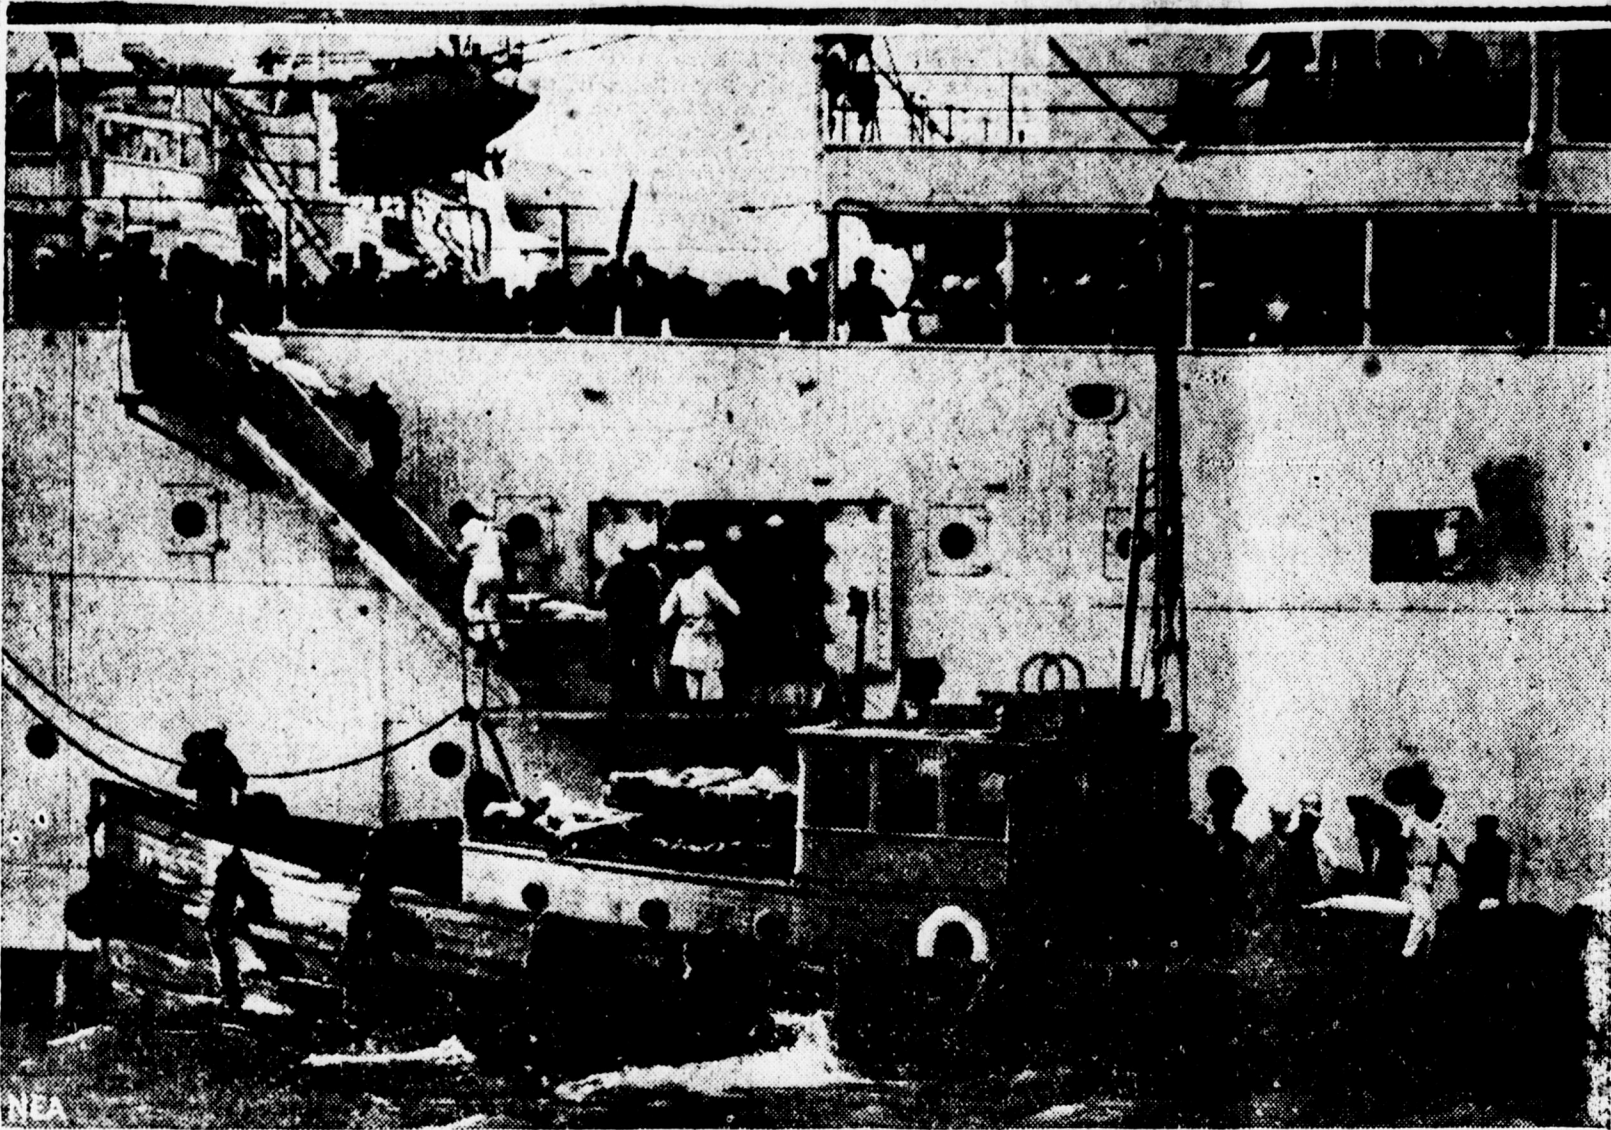

"The Republicans will charge us with favoring the League, whether we say so or not," they explain. "They will seek to use it against us anyway. All we propose is to make the League battle an offensive, not a defensive one; to stand definitely and boldly for American participation in the only world organization which promises any practicable assistance in maintaining the peace of the world."

EXPLOSION VICTIMS BEING TAKEN ON HOSPITAL SHIP

Carrying the dead and injured from the U. S. S. dreadnaught Mississippi to the hospital ship Relief following an explosion during range practice off San Pedro Harbor, Calif. Forty-eight officers and sailors were trapped in a gun turret by the blast when a heavy charge of high explosive flared back from the gun breech, filling the turret with deadly gas.

IS VICTIM

But two days away from transfer to another battleship and a tour of duty in China, fate decreed that Norman Lee Barbee, 21-year-old boy of San Francisco, should meet death in the gun turret explosion aboard the dreadnaught Mississippi. In his last letter to his mother dated June 1, he said, "I told you some time back I would be in Frisco in June, but I don't think now I will make it. My orders are to transfer me to the Asiatic station by the first available transport, and the Arizona leaves here June 14. We are bringing a special experimental battle practice June 14, so I can't get leave, although I have tried hard."

Each Passing Year Adds Service Burden

"The automobile dealer alone safeguards the car owner from the heavy depreciation that the innovations in car design and construction put into the market every year," says W. E. Lahr of the Lahr Motor Sales Co. "The millions of cars that might be regarded as obsolete by the automotive engineer must be kept in serviceable condition. The dealer who sold these last season models is properly the one to whom the owner looks for all the necessities of daily performance. The truly modern dealer just as conscientiously sees to it that the cars he has sold in other years give satisfaction to their owners as he does in the case of the new models he has for sale."

"Each passing year adds to the responsibility of the dealer, for not only does the number of cars increase for which he is responsible, but each new model adds to the complexity of service problems."

"Keeping a thousand car owners happy is a more difficult and more important job than selling cars to one hundred car buyers, and that is about the way in which the modern dealer's business is divided."

She is Mrs. J. M. Finch, 57, a botanist who makes her living from gathering rare plants and bulbs.

Her workshop is remote ranges of the Siskiyou mountains of northern California and Southern Oregon. Her equipment is rifle, pack horse, hunting dogs, tent, bedding, pick, shovel, and ax, provisions and a knowledge of botany.

"The mountains I love them," declares Mrs. Finch. "I have spent all my life in them. For more than 26 years I have worked in the Siskiyou and I have shipped my plants and bulbs to most parts of the United States and Europe."

Mrs. Finch generally makes her trips alone—journeys of a week to 20 days—and meets dangers of storm and blizzard without fear. Nor does she fear wild animals, trusting to her rifle accuracy for protection.

Mrs. Finch became interested in the work when she heard stories of the rare specimens which were hid away in the valleys and unknown places of the Siskiyou.

She made her first trip, and so satisfactory were the results that she has continued.

Plants and bulbs which she collects are eagerly desired in all parts of the world, rare Lewisias, Mariposa tulips, rock plants and many others.

Mrs. Finch is in the best of health, which she attributes to her active outdoor life.

"I expect to be doing the same work when I am sixty," she declares. "Personally, I think it's a great life for a woman."

Woman Botanist Leads Hermit Life in Mountain Wilderness

Kelby, Ore., June 18.—A woman who has found her vocation in places otherwise unpenetrated save for hardiest of occasional hunters, trappers and prospectors, has her headquarters here.

She is Mrs. J. M. Finch, 57, a botanist who makes her living from gathering rare plants and bulbs.

Her workshop is remote ranges of the Siskiyou mountains of northern California and Southern Oregon. Her equipment is rifle, pack horse, hunting dogs, tent, bedding, pick, shovel, and ax, provisions and a knowledge of botany.

PERSONALITY TO FIT CLOTHES

Would Analyze Women's Personalities to Make Them Fit Clothes

By M. Therese Bonney
NEA Service Writer

Paris, June 18.—In these days when human beings have strange complexes and even dogs are susceptible to the colors they wear it seems rather natural to think of having your present wardrobe "psyched" and thus learn what you should wear.

The color you wear is a very vital one. Mme. Valentine de Tulkine, former Russian noblewoman, thinks nothing of more real importance than that a woman be happy in the clothes she wears and how she asks, is this ever possible when the very clothes she wears have been designed and created for a personality diametrically opposed to hers?

How fatal it is when a woman wears checks when she should wear plaids, stripes instead of tucks. Mme. de Tulkine believes in analyzing a woman's personality and diagnosing her already developed taste just as a doctor might proceed for a disease. The results are astounding—a complete transformation. Clothes should be designed and models created, not for slim, trim chosen mannequins but for the individual who is to wear them.

Mme. de Tulkine comes to tea, studies your personality, notes the way you sit you walk and use your hands and then gives you a prescription, telling you the kind of clothes, materials, colors, combination of lines you should wear, designs them for you and supervises their execution. She will not take tea with you at the Ritz because she wants to see you as you really are, for it is, first and above all, your natural self your clothes should express. "Woe unto the woman," says Mme. de Tulkine, "who wears clothes simply because they are the latest style."

CAR STALLS, DRIVER ESCAPES

Hebron, N. D., June 18.—Karl Kreis, farmer living ten miles south of here is minus one perfectly good car, the pilot bars of the engine hauling N. P. Train No. 1 Monday morning are dented and bent—but Kreis is alive, and unhurt to tell the story.

In Hebron to attend the Congregational church conference he started for his home and his car stalled directly on the railway tracks. The train came in sight and Kreis vainly tried to start the machine. There was no time to push it off the tracks. Kreis jumped for his life and stood idly by and powerless as the train approached and smashed his car into ten thousand bits.
